EXPERTS CLOSE CONFERENCE TO HELP GERMANY

Four Resolutions Adopted to Relieve Acute Finan- cial Conditions

PLEDGE COOPERATION

Germans Still Anxious Re- garding Gravity of Pres- ent Situation

London—(AP)—Despite the failure of the seven power conference to extend a new loan to Germany, Chancellor Bruening, the Associated Press is informed, has by no means abandoned his efforts to obtain such a loan.

He was prepared this evening to lay before Secretaries Stimson and Mellon, at a dinner in honor of the Americans, a plan for a new loan which he believed was not sufficient, explained when it was announced in Berlin by Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank.

London—(AP)—Renewal of short term credits maturing in the next few weeks and measures to establish confidence in Germany so that eventual long term credits will be possible were approved by the seven-power conference on Germany's situation at the conclusion of its work this afternoon.

The meeting was adjourned with a round of speeches in which the heads of the various delegations expressed their appreciation of the spirit of friendliness which pervaded the conference, and later there was an official communique which said "the governments are ready to co-operate so far as lies within their power to restore confidence."

Chancellor Bruening declined to make any statement, and while Foreign Minister Curtius was officially hopeful, other members of the delegation remarked privately that the conference had only tided Germany over the immediate future and the consequences of the next few days may renew the crisis.

The resolutions set up this scheme of relief:

1. The central banks of Great Britain, the United States and Belgium and the Bank for International Settlements will renew for 90 days the $100,000,000 credit to Germany which falls due Aug. 16.
2. Private banks are urged by the government to maintain existing credits in Germany.
3. A committee of the Bank for International Settlements will be appointed to consider the question of granting short term credits to Germany and the transformation of existing short term credits into long term.
4. The conference expresses satisfaction at the creation of a 500,000,000 mark (about $125,000,000) reserve in the gold discount bank.

The American position was that the four measures would enable Germany to pass through the present money crisis and, meanwhile, to increase faith in the Reich's credits so that when the 90 days expire long term credits sufficient for the nation's need might be possible.

The resolutions fell short of what Germany hoped to get when Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius went to London Monday night for the conference.

Their hope then was that they would leave with a long term credit of about $75,000,000 to bolster their economic system, and with a renewal of existing short term credits.

Germans Drop Request
But, at a dinner conference with Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson, they were persuaded that such a loan was impossible under present conditions, and they withdrew their request.

The American position was that United States banks would give financial aid to Germany but only if the banks of all the other nations shared the burden. Otherwise, the

Half Dozen Wills Bring Court Puzzle

Washington—(AP)—Six conflicting wills of the late Mrs. Mary T. Henderson, wealthy dowager, have been filed for probate in the District of Columbia Supreme court and the disposition of the "Henderson millions" today was in doubt.

Because Mrs. Henderson made so many wills in an effort to prevent her disinherited foster grandchild from obtaining any of her vast estate, attorneys expressed the opinion that all of them might be invalidated and the estate distributed under the laws of descent.

In that case, Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, who was for many years thought to be a blood grand-daughter of the mistress of "Boundary Castle" might share in the estate estimated at between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000.

In the last will filed for probate, Mrs. Henderson, who died last week at Bar Harbor, Maine, said, her adopted granddaughter became repugnant through actions of her husband instead of by quarrelling over the dowager's efforts to give a residence to the government for an official vice president's home.

The document said that Beatrice and her husband had been excluded from the Henderson home for a number of years because Wholean refused to retain a foreign government post Mrs. Henderson obtained for him and declined to accept 6,000 acres of Missouri land but demanded property at Bar Harbor.

In a will dated Nov. 17, 1930, Mrs. Henderson cut off Mrs. Wholean with $100, although a trust of $395,000, she established earlier for her granddaughter was held irrevocable. If her last will is held invalid, Mrs. Wholean probably will receive most of the estate.

WOMAN BUYS HILLIG SHIP FOR OCEAN HOP

Liberty, N. Y.—(AP)—The plane, Liberty, which carried Otto Hillig and Holger Holmris across the Atlantic to Germany last month, is to fly the ocean again, with its new woman owner, Mrs. Umberto Lofredo, as the pilot.

She bought the big Bellanca ship yesterday from Hillig for a flight to Rome. She hopes to be the first woman to pilot a plane across the ocean.

She paid Liberty's flying photographer, just returned home from Europe, $25,000 for the plane, a thousand more than he paid to have it especially built for his trip. Mrs. Lofredo told him she planned to take off from Buffalo in mid-August, with Newfoundland as the last stop before heading out over the ocean airway for Italy's capital, Rome. Rinaldo, who has crossed the south Atlantic by air, will be her navigator.

APOLOGETIC TELEGRAM REVEALS NEW COMET

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—An apologetic telegram from an obscure Japanese astronomer at Brawley, Calif., to Mt. Wilson observatory authorities has revealed the discovery of a new comet.

M. Nagata, the astronomer, begged pardon for wasting the time of Mt. Wilson scientists and asked if it was possible he had located the comet with his small telescope.

Dr. Seth B. Nicholson of Mt. Wilson observatory, confirmed the discovery and said the comet had been named after the discoverer, as was customary. He described it as being in the constellation of Leo, not far away from the star Rho Leonis and in the general direction of Mars, although about ten degrees to the right of that planet.

Fight Mauthe Not To Retain Office ON GAME BOARD

Private Affairs Keep Conservation Chief from Seeking Reappointment

Fond du Lac—(AP)—Due to the press of private business, William Mauthe, chairman of the state conservation commission, will not accept reappointment to the commission, he announced here today.

Mr. Mauthe was appointed by former Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman in July, 1927. He is president of four industries here and also heads factories at Sioux City, Ia., and Denver, Col. He has recently served as chairman of the board of directors of a Fond du Lac bank.

"The term for which I was appointed now has expired," Mr. Mauthe said in a statement issued today, "and circumstances make it necessary for me to decline reappointment. Obligations to those who for many years have chosen me to head their business enterprises always have been heavy and have recently been increased by demands for additional service."

"To accept these added business responsibilities and do justice to them and at the same time conserve my health, I must devote to business the time and effort which I have heretofore given to official conservation work."

Mr. Mauthe traced the development of conservation activities during the past four years, pointing particularly to the inauguration of a forestry program, development of the state parks and fisheries properties, establishment of the state game farm, the department of search and publicity, advances in law enforcement and observance and the placing of conservation on a non-partisan basis.

Avoids Politics
"Of all accomplishments of the period the one I have talked about most, believing it to be the most significant of all, is the removal of politics from administration," he said. "I have confidence the men remaining on the commission and whoever shall be appointed in my place will strive to make this condition permanent, but eternal vigilance is part of the price that must be paid to attain this aim."

"Often," he said, "we have had to rebuke seekers after special privilege, men who sought to exploit the state's property for personal gain. There are, for example, certain interests which seek to exploit and thus destroy the state's forest holdings. These groups do not hesitate to attempt to use the influence they seem to have with some officials and employees. These developments must be watched if our forests are to be conserved."

"Four years of close contact with administration and working out a suitable program of conservation for Wisconsin have made me more than ever certain that the present and the health and happiness of her people depend largely upon what citizens determine to do about our forests, lakes, streams, fish, game and parks."

HAWKS REGAINS HIS HAVANA HOP LAURELS

Havana—(AP)—Captain Frank Hawks landed here at 11:45, eastern standard time, this morning, completing a flight from New York by way of Wilmington and Miami.

New York—(AP)—In landing at Havana at 11:45 a. m., Frank Hawks regained the speed record from New York, knocking 27 minutes off the time of James Goodwin Hall, who beat Hawks' previous record last Saturday.

Hawks landed in Havana eight hours and eight minutes after leaving New York and spent 20 minutes for refueling at Wilmington, N. C., and Miami on the way.

He was in the air only seven hours and 25 minutes. Hall made his flight non-stop, so his elapsed time and flying time were the same.

The mercury stood at 55 degrees from midnight until 4 o'clock a. m., rising to 100 by 5 o'clock and dropping back to 87 at 5:30. At 9 o'clock a. m. it had climbed to 85 again.

Forest Fires In S. Dakota Chinese Finance Minister Bomb Target; Aide Is Slain

T. V. Soong Escapes Unhurt but Six Others Are Injured in Attack

Tsingtao, China—(AP)—Madame C. J. Soong, mother of Finance Minister T. V. Soong, died here today shortly after receipt of an erroneous report that her son had been killed in the attack made upon him in Shanghai. Madame Soong had been seriously ill and the shock hastened her death.

Shanghai—(AP)—Two bombs and a fusillade of bullets directed at T. V. Soong, finance minister and vice chairman of the Nationalist government, missed their mark here today but fatally injured Soong's secretary Tang Yu-Loh.

Six other Chinese were injured, some of them apparently by Soong's bodyguard in answering the fire of the unidentified assassins.

The attack was launched just after Soong and his party arrived by train from Nanking. The bombs failed to explode when thrown, but one of them later was discharged when it picked up by a soldier. He was possibly fatally wounded. A Cantonese student was arrested later in connection with the incident.

Tang Yu-Loh was 32 years old and was married recently. He formerly was a student at both Harvard and Yale universities.

Soong, a pillar of the much harassed Nationalist government was entering an automobile when the group attacked. Two bullets struck Tang Yu-Loh, who was near Soong.

The shots threw a large crowd into an uproar. The density of the throng prevented police from firing at the assassins. Officers fired several volleys into the air in a vain attempt to halt them. They escaped in the confusion. Tang was rushed to a hospital, where he died.

Another passenger on the train was Mamoru Shiraizumi, charge d'affaires of the Japanese legation at Nanking, whose presence at the station caused reports that he had been one of the intended victims. He was in no way involved.

Soong's entourage declined to speculate upon the probable identity of the assassins. Official circles believed the attempt on his life was instigated by sympathizers of the insurgent Canton government.

The finance minister's life was threatened once before as the result of political enmity. Since then he always has carried a pistol.

Only 37 years old, Soong is a graduate of Harvard university and one of the leading financiers of China. He is a member of a family said to be one of the wealthiest in the Far East.

His father, Sun Yat-sen, was the founder of the republic, and a brother-in-law of Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nationalist government.

After obtaining his degree at Harvard Soong took graduate work at Columbia university and subsequently was connected with several New York banking houses. Upon his return to China he was active in the organization of the Nationalist government.

POPE CALLS SPECIAL MEET OF CARDINALS

Discuss Conflicts Between Church and State in Several Countries

Vatican City—(AP)—Conflicts between the church and state in Italy, Spain, Mexico and Lithuania were discussed today by Pope Pius with 20 cardinals of the curia summoned hurriedly to a meeting which took on the importance of a special consistory.

The session, in the Vatican library, lasted nearly three hours and was conducted in the greatest secrecy. When it was over no statement was made.

It was believed the situation in Spain was particularly prominent in the discussion on the basis of a report by the cardinal-archbishop of Tarragona, who flew from Barcelona to see the pope and returned to Spain by airplane yesterday.

It was assumed the pontiff gave the cardinals a detailed account of the situation here, in Mexico, Spain and Lithuania and in some quarters it was believed the cardinals had been called into conference because of recent criticism in Italy that the pope has been acting independently without consulting the cardinals.

ACCEPTS LEAGUE POST New York Banker, Today Called him by the League of Nations on its finance committee.

Washington—(AP)—The League of Nations has selected an auspicious season for their vacation air trip to the Orient.

Officials of the weather bureau, consulting records of the north Pacific and the Bering sea—many of them compiled by Japan—found average conditions in late July and early August to rank with the best for flying in that region.

The trip will start next week. The exact day is undecided. The route will be via Ottawa, the Canadian northwest and Alaska.

Later the menace of storm, fog and ice forming on wings, increases. The northern summer, which wanes rapidly after middle August, now is at its peak.

However, Charles L. Mitchell, weather forecaster, pointed out that

RAILROAD RATE QUIZ ADVANCED TO AUG. 10

Commission Complies With Plea by Carriers for Earlier Hearings

Washington—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission today advanced the date for continuing hearings on the 15 per cent rate increase proposal to Aug. 10.

The advancement of the date for continuing hearings, which originally was set for Aug. 31, was made on a motion by carriers for earlier completion than would have been possible under the original plans. It was opposed by shippers who asserted they felt they were entitled "to the full time originally announced to prepare their case."

The hearing Aug. 10, will be held in Washington. Other hearings will be held in San Francisco, Portland, Ore.; Kansas City, Mo.; Dallas, Salt Lake City, Atlanta, Chicago, and at some point to be selected in New England. The Chicago hearing will be at the Hotel Sherman, Aug. 31. Dates for hearings at the other places will be announced shortly.

The hearings may proceed in different parts of the country simultaneously.

The commission also announced it would refuse to receive evidence regarding individual railroads or minor groups of railroads and of the level of railroad wages. It wishes to keep the hearings on a general basis.

PRESIDENT HOOVER GETS 'HOWARD' PLAN

Washington—(AP)—Representative Howard, Democrat, Nebraska, today presented what he termed "the Howard plan" to President Hoover.

The plan suggested a five year extension for the time of payment of the principal amount of all mortgages on homes.

"My plan for a moratorium on mortgages," Howard said, "is so simple that even a French diplomat could not find any German ghosts inside it."

Howard said he also had urged the president to have the agriculture department take quick action in an effort to eradicate grasshoppers which are now plaguing large areas in the north middle west.

FLAMES ALSO SWEEP LARGE WYOMING AREA

Tourists, Civilians, Ranchers and Soldiers Take Part in Battle

Deadwood, S. D.—(AP)—Fire that started in a barn on a ranch five miles east of here and spread to the Black Hills National forest today was being fought by several hundred soldiers, ranchers and forest rangers.

The flames swept rapidly through trees and underbrush made extremely dry by prolonged drought and were out of control before forest rangers could be notified.

The fire started on the John Custer ranch. Mrs. Custer reported that she saw a tourist drive away as the barn burst into flames. She fought it alone until neighbors arrived, and then collapsed.

Carried along by a strong southwest wind, the fire swept through the Two Bit district and the Lost Gulch near Helena, and then turned and headed toward Deadwood.

Members of the Fourth U. S. Cavalry, stationed at Fort Meade, employees of the Homestake Mining company, and residents of Deadwood, Sturgis and Lead, as well as nearby ranchers, became fire fighters.

Four other fires, all under control, were reported burning in scattered sections of the Black Hills.

RIPON STAR FREED IN YOUTH'S DEATH

Case Against Roger Martin in Wilson Mystery

Berlin—(AP)—Manslaughter charges against Roger Martin, 20, Minneapolis, were dropped today after an inquest into the death of Allen Wilson, 24, Wales, fatally injured in a dance hall fight here July 9, were dismissed by Court Commissioner Fred Englebracht late yesterday.

Martin was a freshman at Ripon college last year and was a star player on the basketball and football teams at the school. He is the brother of Coach Rodney Martin of the Ripon basketball squad.

Martin testified in his own behalf, yesterday, at the second session of a coroner's inquest into Wilson's death. He stated he did not attempt to punish Wilson, but admitted he held him on the ground outside the dance hall until he promised to behave.

Martin was not involved in the testimony at the first hearing, which revealed that someone jealous of Wilson's having danced with his partner too often may have administered the fatal beating.

Other witnesses yesterday said they first believed Wilson's unconsciousness to be alcoholic.

Pennsylvania Miner Kills Members of Family, Then Runs Amuck

WAS FOUND IN SANE
Slayer Examined Yesterday, Was to Go to Institution Today

Mercer, Pa.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and four wounded when a crazed man attacked members of his family and others in a small mining village near Leesburg today.

Marko Demofonti, 45, who was pronounced insane by physicians yesterday and was to have been removed to an institution for the insane today, shot and killed his wife and her sister in his home with a revolver and then went to the street of the village, firing at random at other villagers.

The dead—Mrs. Marko Demofonti; Mrs. Alfonso Fastetti, her sister; Mrs. Frank Tackla, Gartano Berlaqua, and Mrs. Pete C. Cecilian.

The wounded—Demofonti; Tony Cecilian, 16, seriously wounded; Mrs. Mike Bannan, and her daughter, Flora, 12.

Condition Not Serious
Demofonti was shot and wounded in the hip by George Masters, proprietor of the village store. His condition was not believed serious and he was brought here for treatment.

The shooting occurred at the No. 2 mine of the Sharon Coal and Limestone company.

The crazed man was brought here yesterday for an examination to determine whether he was insane. He was returned to his home, and this morning arose from bed to attack his wife and sister-in-law. His brother-in-law had gone to work in the mine.

Masters halted Demofonti's mad march when he obtained a revolver and shot the deranged man. Masters operated the supply store for the miners.

The wounded were brought to a Mercer hospital. Demofonti was a miner by occupation, but because of his condition, had not been working in the mine. He had been acting queerly, but had not been violent and was not regarded dangerous.

Was Heavily Armed
The crazed man was armed with a revolver, a shotgun and a knife. After shooting his wife and her sister with the revolver, he went to an unoccupied house next door and set it afire. He then went to the Cecilian home farther along the street and shot Mrs. Cecilian and her son with the revolver.

Mrs. Tackla and Berlaqua were in the yards of their homes. Demofonti killed the woman with the revolver and Berlaqua with the shotgun.

From the homes of Mrs. Tackla and Berlaqua, the man went to the Bannan house and attacked Mrs. Bannan and her daughter with the knife. The child was stabbed in the abdomen.

When Mrs. the alarm was spread to the company store. Masters and three other men entered Masters' automobile to search for the demented man. They met Demofonti striding down the street flourishing the shotgun. When they approached, Demofonti pressed the trigger of the revolver, but it did not discharge. Masters fired three shots, one of them striking Demofonti in the hip.

Killer Arrested After He Shoots Two Federal Dry Agents

INDIANA POLICE SEIZE EX-FELON AT FORT WAYNE

Bootlegger Wounded in Battle and Captured Four Hours Later

Fort Wayne, Ind. — (AP) — Four hours after he shot and killed two federal prohibition agents to escape a trap they laid for him, George Adams, reputed Fort Wayne bootlegger, and former convict, was captured by local police early today.

Cornered on a road at the south edge of the city with a load of liquor the agents had ordered last night, Adams shot and killed at close range John J. Wilson, 40, of Rockwell City, Ia., ranking special agent in the Indianapolis prohibition enforcement office. Wilson was said by his companions to be unarmed.

Then, wounded in the neck and cheek by shots from the gun of Walter M. Gilbert, 35, special agent from Cincinnati, Adams returned the fire and Gilbert fell, fatally wounded. He died an hour later in a Fort Wayne hospital.

A special federal prohibition informer, J. D. Green of Portland, Ind., and another special agent, Oliver J. Gettle of Indianapolis, who said Adams "seemed to be crazy," dove for cover to escape the fire from Adams' gun. Both were cut by barbed wire fencing in a culvert into which they dropped.

Captured By Police
Adams made his escape, and a wide search was organized. Local police, tipped off by federal agents, captured him without a shot being fired early today as he drove up to the home of Frank V. Kenierski. He was placed in the Allen-Co. jail.

Lloyd Krouse, to whose home 12 miles south of here Adams drove after the shooting, was held as a material witness. He was bandaged Adams' neck and then drove him in Krouse's car to Fort Wayne where they were taken into custody.

Major Howard Long, deputy prohibition administrator for northern Indiana, arrived today to open an official investigation of the shooting. Arrival of Oliver M. Leonard, federal district attorney for northern Indiana, was awaited before Adams will be given a hearing before United States Commissioner William D. Rimmel.

Adams was released from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., last January. He was sentenced by Judge Thomas W. Sick at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 7, 1929, after pleading guilty to three federal liquor law charges.

Green, the informer who helped set the trap for Adams last night, was treated at a hospital, and then telephoned officers at Portland, asking a guard be stationed at his home to protect members of his family from possible attacks. Portland records revealed he had been convicted on 21 counts of liquor law violation, and had served the sentences concurrently.

Green and Agent Gilbert spent an hour at Adams' home early last night, arranging for purchase of a load of liquor. They assigned a meeting place, near Stearns bridge on the lower Huntington road, a mile south of here. When Adams drove up, agents closed in. Adams drew a revolver, and the shooting began.

Gilbert fired the first shot, according to Green and Gettle, after Adams said "I'm going to kill you."

Describes Shootings
Jerry Sierer, 40, of Waynesdale, was waiting just the cars as the shooting started. He turned about and witnessed most of the battle.

"I saw one man shooting at two others who were in the road," Sierer said. One, who I learned was Wilson, dropped to the pavement, and as the others turned, Adams followed them shooting. After they dropped he walked back to Wilson, apparently to reload his gun and then fired four or five shots into Wilson as he lay on the ground.

Gettle said he tried to talk Adams out of shooting as they stood between his car and their own. "He had us covered when we stepped from the car, but we didn't believe that he would murder us. We were in our shirt sleeves, and because of that our guns in the car. Wilson never had a chance. He stood there without making a move as Adams shot him. Even after he shot Wilson we tried to talk to him, but the man seemed to go crazy."

Wilson, one of the dead agents, had been in government service three years and had served at Springfield, Ill., Chicago and Detroit, Mich. Gilbert, of the Cincinnati office, was known in Indianapolis, where he testified last year in the government's case against ten Indianapolis policemen charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Gilbert and Green had been working on an investigation at Adron, Ohio, until recently, moving here where they joined Gettle.

New Method Of Isolating Bacteria Hailed By Medics As Startling Discovery

Chicago — (AP) — The discovery of a new method of isolating bacteria which heretofore have remained invisible, announced by Dr. Arthur I. Kendall, professor of bacteriology at Northwestern university, was hailed today by his colleagues as an important victory in the fight of science against disease.

Some of Dr. Kendall's associates described the discovery, revealed by Dr. Kendall in a lecture last night, as the most important victory in the isolation of bacteria since the discoveries of Louis Pasteur. They said it probably would open the way for a more thorough and exact knowledge of such diseases as influenza, rheumatism, infantile paralysis and sleeping sickness.

Although the scientist's experiments have thus far been limited, he postulated in the summary of his lecture, that a majority, if not all known bacteria, were subject to the new method of isolation.

Briefly, the discovery was described as the development of culture media which will change bacteria from invisible to visible form. The essential ingredient, he said, was a small intestine of man, swine, dog or rabbit, chemically treated. Dr. Kendall referred to his media as his "K media." He is now preparing a second paper so that its manufacture and testing will be possible in other laboratories.

Dr. Kendall's announcement, made before a group of scientists, was followed by prolonged applause. Dr. Edward G. Rosenow, head of the bacteriology research division of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., said:

"We have just listened to the revelation of a great discovery. Dr. Kendall has found a way to make bacteria take a new form. That in itself is a great accomplishment in a lifetime. The future will show the great news of his contribution to science."

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the faculty of medicine at Northwestern, said: "The discovery is as startling as those of Pasteur."

Dr. Kendall is 54 years old, and has been a member of the staff of the Northwestern medical school since 1910. The experiments which resulted in his discovery have been conducted for a year with rabbits and patients at the Passavant and Evanston hospitals, who were suffering from typical diseases. Development of the culture media was described as having been accomplished through simulating, as closely as possible conditions which occur in the human body.

SELECT 3 ROUTES TO MOVE HOUSES
English Lutheran Church Building to Be Moved to Erb Park

Routes for three houses to be moved by the Appleton Engineering and Housemoving company were decided upon by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., L. M. Schindler, city engineer, and C. D. Thompson, chairman of the street and bridge committee, after an investigation Wednesday afternoon.

The house on the corner of Superior and Washington-sts will be moved on College-ave to Richmond-st, on Richmond to Summer and then on to Clark. The McCormick home, owned by the Mount Olive Lutheran church, will be taken over College-ave, Richmond-st and Park-way-blvd. The First English Lutheran church building will be hauled down North-st to Lawrence-st, on Lawrence to Wisconsin-ave, and then over Meade and Roosevelt-sts to Erb park, where it will be remodelled into a pavilion.

The committee chose those routes which presented the least hazards of tree damage. The two houses going out Richmond-st will block traffic on that street as they go through, but no blockade will result from the haul down College-ave, as the street is wide enough to permit drivers to circle the house. In all probability the work on College-ave will be done during the night, when the streets will be reasonably free from traffic.

FINED $1, COSTS ON DISORDERLY CHARGE
Pleading guilty of disorderly conduct, Seeley Gurnee, 604 S. River-st, was fined $1 and costs in municipal court this morning by Judge Theodore Verg. Mrs. Lila Calmes, 408 E. Wisconsin-ave, was the complainant. Gurnee was arrested this morning shortly before he was taken to court.

A Chicago motorist, Margaret McNamara, was arrested about 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the corner of Highways 10 and 26 by Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer, on a charge of failing to stop for the arterial there. She posted a $10 bond with the officer and promised to appear in municipal court at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

DONOHUE REPLIES TO LABOR CHARGES AT OSHKOSH MEET

Says Governor Approved Policy of Committee on Employment

Sheboygan — (AP) — Responding to charges made by the general executive board of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor before the 39th annual convention of that organization at Oshkosh Tuesday, that the Wisconsin citizens' committee on employment had changed front at its request in recommending a 10-hour day, Jerry Donohue, former chairman of the state highway commission, today said the policy was approved by Governor LaFollette.

"The recommendations of the citizens' committee on employment were in no sense made at my instigation or behest," Mr. Donohue stated, "but, after a meeting with representatives of the Associated Wisconsin Contractors who argued against restricting their operations to a limited time because of the seasonal nature of the work, the committee took the position that two six-hour shifts would be practical in bridge construction, quarries and some types of grading, but recommended a maximum 60-hour week on other highway construction. They also recommended the establishment of a minimum wage."

"At a meeting of the highway commission with Governor LaFollette on Feb. 17, a resolution fixing the policy of a maximum 60-hour week and a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour was discussed. At the instance of the governor a few minor changes were made in the resolution, but nothing affecting either wages or hours of work."

"Later this same day the commission, at Governor LaFollette's request, met with him and a group of legislators from each of the nine highway divisions of the state. Pursuant to the discussion at these meetings the policy now in effect was adopted."

"Subsequently, March 19, because of a federal regulation and with the approval of Governor LaFollette, the requirement of a 40-cent minimum wage was eliminated and a 'fair and reasonable wage' was substituted in the resolution."

"Any protest against the present policy regarding hours and wages can properly be registered with Governor LaFollette with whose approval and assistance the resolution was formulated."

LAMONT, DOAK TRY TO SETTLE COAL DISPUTE

Secretaries Ask Operators if They Will Attend General Conference

Washington—(AP)—In another effort to obtain a general conference between those interested in the bituminous coal industry, the secretaries of commerce and labor have asked 125 operators if they would participate in discussions with miners.

Secretaries Lamont and Doak dispatched the letters shortly after the former had conferred with President Hoover late yesterday at the White House.

Through a general conference, the administration believes that a possible solution of at least a part of the difficulties confronting the depressed soft coal industry might be found. For weeks the government has made efforts to get the operators and miners together without success.

John L. Lewis, president of the United States Mine Workers of America, appealed to President Hoover June 11, to arrange a conference and the message was referred to Secretaries Lamont and Doak. The former met with a group of operators and Doak with labor representatives but no progress was made.

Most of the operators took the view, the letter to the select 125 said, that nothing could be accomplished at a nation-wide joint conference of operators and miners.

At the conference with Doak, it continued, the miners' representatives maintained that the operators' group did not effectively represent the industry.

"As it is our desire to assist in any workable and practical plan which might offer to contribute substantially to a solution of the difficulties in the coal industry," the letter said, "this letter is being sent to a representative number of operators located in the more important producing districts in the country for the purpose of presenting this specific inquiry."

"At a convenient time in the near future, the secretaries will attempt a representative joint conference of operators and miners for the purposes stated."

"In your judgment would such a conference bring about the results outlined by Mr. Lewis?"

A copy of Lewis' telegram to Mr. Hoover accompanied the letter, along with the chief executive's reply that the administration desired to lend every possible assistance to "any constructive program put forward by operators and miners."

FUNERAL OF MRS. FORD HELD IN WASHINGTON

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington — Private funeral services were held here Wednesday night for Mrs. Effie Ford, wife of Rev. E. L. Ford, who died Monday night after an unsuccessful operation to halt spreading infection from an automobile accident. Both Dr. and Mrs. Ford formerly were students of Lawrence College, Appleton.

Mrs. Ford was a native of Racine county, Wis., being born there in 1878. At Appleton during her college years, she met Dr. Ford, her future husband. He came from the western part of the Badger State.

When he was named missionary to Foo Chow, China, in 1906, they were married and made the long trip together. They did not return permanently to this country until 1927, and have been in Washington since 1928. Dr. Ford is now director of religious education of the Foundry Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ford is survived by her husband, a son, James L. C. Ford who is associated with the United Press in New York; a daughter, Miss Alice Louise Ford, an honor student at American University, here; a sister, Miss Louise M. Collier of Racine, and a brother, J. Z. Collier of Union Grove, Wis. Mr. Collier arrived Wednesday afternoon from Wisconsin.

Thursday Mrs. Ford's body was cremated and the ashes probably will be taken to Wisconsin for burial in a family lot in a Racine cemetery. The automobile accident occurred last Friday when Dr. Ford was driving back from Frederick, Md. The car skidded on wet pavement and partly overturned. No one was injured except Mrs. Ford, who had her arm pinned beneath the car. She was taken to the hospital when infection set in and Sunday night her right arm was amputated in an attempt to save her life but she died Monday night.

Diving Helmet Built By 16-Year-Old Appleton Boy

With a common rubber hose, a galvanized can about two feet wide and a piece of window glass 16-year-old Joseph Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Cannon has made a diving helmet that has been to the bottom of Sunset lake several times since its "trial submerston" last week at Camp Onaway.

Joe, who has always been interested in inventions and mechanical objects, took the pieces of his devised diving helmet to camp with him, where he could try it out. Combersome, but technically put together, the pall-like device slides over the head and extends down in the front and back. Window glass fitted and cemented in the front of the galvanized piece enables the diver to see under water. In order to take care of the water pressure and depth, weights of cast lead are coupled with bolts on the front and back of the helmet. The long rubber hose, about 50 feet long, which is fitted into the rotating top of the galvanized cap, connects with a double action tire pump.

A stout rope is tied around the diver's waist and tied securely to a post on shore for safety and signaling purposes. The diver is assisted with his heavy cap which slips over his head and shoulders. As soon as the diver descends into the water, the pump on shore begins to operate the hand pump to keep the diver supplied with air as he goes down in the water. Many of the Onaway campers have tried the helmet with success and several of the boys have brought trophies from the lake bottom. Harold Hauert, one of the Y. M. C. A. camp leaders, rescued a woman's silver trapezoid from the lake bottom in a 40 foot trip under water.

The signals are arranged between an assistant and the diver. The assistant stands in the water holding the slack rope in his hand in order to feel the jerks as the diver gives them. Four quick jerks mean that the diver intends to come up if his comrades will bring him by the over-hand rope method, while a double set of four jerks means that he is in a hurry to come to the surface. As soon as the diver submerges bubbles arise to the surface which may be seen constantly while he is under water as an indication that the diver is breathing perfectly.

Syndicalist Disorders Continue To Spread In Spanish Areas

MARTIAL LAW RULES PART OF NEW REPUBLIC

Known Death List Swelled to 22—Airmen Fight Rooftop Snipers

Seville, Spain.—(AP)—Civil guards and troops killed four members of a mob attempting to rescue three workmen from prisoners in Plaza Espana today. The known death list in the syndicalist disorders now stands at 22.

In the suburb of Macarena, two artillery and four machine gun units surrounded a tavern alleged to be a communistic center, ordered the residents to leave immediately and prepared to destroy the tavern.

Airmen patrolling the city fired with machine guns on rooftop snipers.

Madrid.—(AP)—The Spanish cabinet met today and decided to withhold application of the so-called national defense decree against strikers. Foreign Minister Alejandro Lerroux said, because the situation lacks extreme gravity.

The cabinet approved the finance decree stipulating that bank notes be stamped with the seal of the republic, hoping thus to stimulate their circulation.

An appropriation of 10,000,000 pesetas was approved to alleviate unemployment in Andalusia. Police dispersed a group in the fashionable Paseo without incident.

With Seville under martial law as the result of disorders in which 17 persons were killed, the tenseness of Spain's political situation increased today as the nation looked forward to a change in government next week.

It was predicted that when the assembly is constitutionally constituted Monday or Tuesday, the cabinet would immediately resign. Forecasts were that the parliament would choose Alcala Zamora as president—and now holds that post provisionally—and that he would summon either Manuel Azana, present war minister, or Alejandro Lerroux, foreign minister, to the premiership.

The seriousness of the situation in Seville was made clear when martial law was pronounced only half an hour after Miguel Maura, minister of the interior, announced he would oppose calling in the military authorities.

Despite the subsequent developments, Maura remained optimistic about the government's ability to suppress such uprisings as the syndicalist strike outbreaks in Seville.

"This anarchist affair is weak," he said. "I will peel them like an orange."

Socialist Deputy Theodorico Mindeza of Asturias, declared the situation was most grave. "I should not be surprised to see a republican military dictatorship emerge," he said. "I believe the Socialist Minister Largo Caballero, at whom the syndicalists are aiming, should resign."

The government movement against syndicalists continued, and hundreds were arrested.

The proclamation declaring martial law in Seville set forth that warnings would fire on the slightest warning and that therefore residents had better keep off the streets and out of balconies. Resistance to the military will result in immediate court martial. The troops were ordered to use heavy artillery to destroy houses from which sniping has been going on.

HIGHEST COURT MAY GET ACCIDENT CASE

Refuses to Admit Jurors' Affidavits

Manitowoc.—(AP)—The long contested automobile accident case of Mrs. R. Goetz will be appealed to the supreme court, it was announced today, following the refusal yesterday of Circuit Judge Clayton Van Fleet, Fond du Lac, to admit affidavits of 11 of the 12 jurors in the last trial of the case.

The jurors swore the verdict of $7,916 was nullified against their wishes. They asked the court to be allowed to answer several of the questions propounded to the jury again, so that the court's finding that Goetz, who was killed in a crash with a taxicab, was guilty of contributory negligence, could be overturned.

The affidavits were obtained in an effort to get a third trial of the case. In the first trial, last Nov. 30, a jury gave Mrs. Goetz $10,000 damages from the cab company and the insurance firm with which it held policies, but the judge set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial. A retrial was held last June 12, resulting in the damage verdict which was defeated by the finding of contributory negligence.

STILL NO TRACE OF GREEN BAY ROBBERS

The sheriff's deputies set out yesterday for an unannounced destination. Officers who participated in a gun fight with the bank robbers were taken along, but could not identify any of the five men as participants in the robbery.

EXPERTS CLOSE CONFERENCE TO HELP GERMANY

Four Resolutions Adopted to Relieve Acute Financial Conditions

problem was to stop the flight of foreign credits from the Reich, render necessary immediate aid, and await improvement in the situation. This idea was held also by the British and, according to Secretary of State Stimson, was put before the conference in its first form by Mr. MacDonald, and then it evolved gradually through the suggestions of various delegations.

The French attitude, it was known automatically, largely prevented the conference from being able to work out means of long term credits to Germany. The French were absolutely unwilling to participate in such a loan without political and drastic financial guarantees.

The British and the Americans were unwilling to share in the execution of such political and financial conditions, and also were unwilling to make a large long term loan without French aid, and so less tangible measures of relief were decided upon.

The spirit of amiability was said by the conferees to prevail throughout the negotiations, which were likened to those of creditor bankers taking measures to save from bankruptcy a brother banker in financial straits.

Press Disappointed

Under the caption "A Lost Opportunity," the Times said today there will be general disappointment in the meager achievements of the conference.

"From the outset," the paper declared, "the conference was precluded from grappling with the fundamental factors responsible for the crisis in Germany. So long as the United States declined to discuss war debts and France declined to discuss reparations, it was clear no real progress could be made towards permanent settlement of the economic problem of Germany."

The Times admitted the decision to maintain Germany's existing foreign credits was of great importance, but asked, what of the future?

"For a moment," the newspaper continued, "France and the United States have succeeded in evading the real issues, but they cannot be evaded much longer. It is useless to deny the urgent necessity of finding a more permanent settlement of Germany's problems."

The Daily Express said the real question of a loan to restore Germany's financial equilibrium was yet to be met.

"In the end," the paper continued, "it will fall on Great Britain and America to praise it and a new triple alliance—Germany, Great Britain and America—will begin to take form."

The Daily Mail's diplomatic commentator contended that the mere holding of the conference was sufficient to restore Germany. He declared the withdrawal of gold from Germany had ceased and that a large loan no longer was necessary.

Stimson Is Pleased

London.—(AP)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in a formal statement today expressed satisfaction with the results of the seven power conference on the German financial crisis.

"Mr. Mellon and I," he said, "are very well satisfied with the labors of the conference. They form a fitting sequel to the effort made by President Hoover to stay the mistrust which was dragging down the finances of Germany and thus endangering the economic condition of the rest of the world."

"Mr. Hoover's effort relieved Germany from the burden of paying $400,000,000 this year and enabled her to meet her budget in order."

"In spite of that, however, mistrust remained and creditors continued to withdraw money from German banks. This threatened to cripple German industry. Their action was the result of fear of unsettled political as well as economic conditions."

"This conference, participated in by ministers of nearly all the creditor countries, has furnished the means for terminating this mistrust."

"The friendly meeting between the ministers of France and Germany unprecedented in its cordiality, has reassured the world in respect of political conditions and has greatly tended to restore the basis of confidence."

"The governments of all these creditor countries also have agreed to curtail their influence and leadership in delaying the panic which was causing withdrawal of German credit. This course, if successfully carried out, will leave Germany in possession of the capital on which her factories and industries depend."

"Most of this money comes from America and our banks, under the leadership of our Federal Reserve System, already have been organizing to reassure creditors against withdrawal of these funds."

"The bank of England has been taking similar steps to preserve the level of British lendings. Similar action now promised in the conference, from all of the other creditors will greatly help to end the panic and give Germany a breathing spell to reorganize her resources."

Hoover Viewpoint

Washington.—(AP)—President Hoover said today the London conference had laid sound foundations for the establishment of stability in Germany.

American officials regard the agreement reached at the London conference today as an important step toward solution of Germany's emergency economic problem.

Acting Secretary Castle, of the state department, after talking with Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Stimson in London, expressed hope that the agreement would have a prompt and immediate effect. The text of the London settlement was given the acting secretary.

WIFE, 74, DIVORCES HUSBAND, 79; EACH WED TWICE BEFORE

A couple approaching the 80-year mark, each of whom had been married twice previously, was divorced yesterday in municipal court by Judge Theodore Berg.

The decree was granted to the plaintiff Mrs. Lena Goehring, 74, Neenah, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. A cross bill had been filed by the husband, Fred Goehring, 79, Shiocton, a farmer. No alimony was sought, but there was a division of property. There are no children by this marriage.

Mrs. Goehring charged that her husband failed to support her properly and that he struck her at times.

The couple was married Sept. 4, 1927, at Shiocton, and separated last April.

DENIES PART IN DEATH OF AGENT

Widow Says She Is Not Involved in Florida Tangled Legal Case

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—The widow of the late Tammany hall chief, told a new turn with her denial that she was involved in the death of Guthridge L. Robinson, her personal agent.

The denial was made in her answer to a suit filed by Robinson's father, R. E. Robinson, her former attorney, who is seeking to establish a lien on part of the Croker Palm Beach estate to secure his claim for $125,000 on a fifth interest in the property.

Guthridge Robinson died here June 29. None of the papers in the suit say how Mrs. Croker is alleged to have been involved in his death, which local newspapers at the time described as following "a lingering illness."

Mrs. Croker's answer, however, says that R. E. Robinson asserted Mrs. Robinson, widow of Guthridge Robinson, threatened to sue her for killing him unless she paid Mrs. Robinson $10,000. Mrs. Croker entered the suit early this month R. E. Robinson demanded that she buy him an automobile.

The Croker property involved in Robinson's suit was to be divided among five attorneys or agents as payments for successful legal services in connection with the extensive litigation against Mrs. Croker. Mrs. Croker sets forth Robinson was not entitled to any pay until litigation against her is ended, and besides, she says, he was discharged last July 17 for opposition to her interests. She asks dissolution of his suit.

MARKET STILL DOUBTFUL ON LONDON PARLEY

Opens Heavy but Makes Partial Recovery on New York Exchange

New York.—(AP)—The adjournment of the London conference today left Wall-st still groping in a fog of uncertainty.

The stock market opened with a heavy tone, but selling was light, and prices recovered a little after this opening.

Banking quarters here were inclined to feel that the conference left the European financial problem unsolved, but saw some hope in the conference statement's reference to the $125,000,000 guarantee fund established by German industry as making it possible to provide a sound basis for the resumption of the normal operations of international credit.

This was interpreted as a hint that further credits might be provided with such guarantee funds as security.

Bankers generally saw only the prospect of further delay in the recommendation of the appointment of a special committee by the Bank for International Settlements.

It was pointed out that the recommendations for further extension of the $100,000,000 central bank credit, and the maintenance of the volume of private credits outstanding in Germany, only sanctioned and urged extension of the arrangements already in force.

Some of Wall-st's foremost banking quarters have been saying for several days that there appeared to be little that the conference could accomplish. This group has not favored further extensions of credit to Germany at this time.

Another and somewhat smaller group, however, distinctly opposed to this view, feeling that Wall-st should take prompt and aggressive measures.

British Action Perturbing

The increase in the Bank of England's discount rate from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 per cent, forced by the fresh inroads upon the Bank of England's gold stock chiefly by France had been expected in Wall-st, but there was an inclination to regard the necessity for such a move as unfortunate.

When reductions in bank rates in New York and Paris a few months ago had brought the Bank of England to cut its rate to 2 1/2 per cent in May, the almost world-wide cheap money was regarded as considerably enhancing the prospect of business recovery.

An unconfirmed rumor heard rather widely in Wall-st is that the Bank of England can quickly get a credit of $50,000,000 here if the British discount rate proves inadequate to check its losses of gold.

For several days, exchange rates have made takings of London gold by Wall-st highly profitable, but American bankers have refrained from aggravating the situation. It was pointed out that the Bank of England's position could not be regarded as particularly disturbing, for while its weekly statement showed its gold only about $200,000 in excess of the so-called Cunliffe minimum of $750,000,000, it was recalled that gold reserves had been permitted to fall some $50,000,000 under the Cunliffe minimum last January.

Sterling exchange recovered sharply on announcement of the higher discount rate, but still held the level at which London gold would be safe from further inroads.

In the stock market, most losses were considerably less than $1 a share, but a few issues declined as much as $1 to $2 including U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical and Eastman.

MANUFACTURER DIES

Broadway Fights Wolf By Cooperative Action

New York.—(AP)—Broadway has gone co-op to keep the wolf from the door.

Two nights ago the curtain rose on a new show, "Shoot the Works," and even sings in the enthusiasm of the proposition that actors must eat.

Today a new weekly newspaper, "Newsdom," appeared; a modest tabloid, the purpose of which is to put co-operative profits in co-operative pay envelopes.

Heywood Brown, newspaper columnist, is the impresario of "Shoot the Works." He makes a speech and even sings in the enthusiasm of his effort to make the show accomplish its primary purpose which is, in essence, to put some ham, or something, in the actor's sandwich.

The cast is made up of actors and actresses who otherwise might be "at liberty." The critics, for the most part, have been kind. One of them remarked: "It is certainly a worthy cause. My advice to the philanthropically inclined is to buy tickets and give them away."

Under the arrangement by which it was produced, the actors and choristers are the only ones who can make money from the venture. Those who put up funds for the production have agreed to take nothing but what they actually put up.

"Newsdom" has Edward A. Roth, for 43 years on the staffs of the World and the Evening World, as editor. It is written, edited and published by unemployed newspaper men and women—a dozen on the editorial staff, the others soliciting subscriptions. All the workers are newspaper workers who have found themselves out of jobs as a result of recent consolidations. In the New York field, "Newsdom" publishes no advertising and sells for 25 cents a copy.

"We will work entirely on a co-operative basis," said Jack Hyatt, news editor. "If we make 500 bucks this week, after paying expenses, the remainder will be divided among the staff, and we will continue to do that."

"Aside from staff writers, we will have each week a guest columnist and guest cartoonist. The first edition has Edward Jones of the American, and Windsor McCay, also of the American."

"Newsdom" has no financial backers. The first edition was eight pages.

AGED COUPLE WAITS FOR TRAIN AT POLICE STATION IN CHICAGO

Chicago.—(AP)—The afternoon sitz of Sergeant John Maloy yesterday afternoon was abruptly interrupted by the appearance at the S. State-st police station of an elderly man, his wife, and a suitcase.

"Is this the station?" he asked the sergeant. Assured that it was, the stranger saw to it that his wife was seated on a bench and that his suitcase was properly placed, whereupon he began to stride up and down.

"I must be about time," he said to the sergeant finally.

"Yes," replied the sergeant. "It must be about time all right, but about time for what?"

"About time for the train to start."

"Train?" asked the sergeant. "We have no train here. This was the depot."

"You said this was the depot," argued the stranger. "I have to take a train to Strong City Junction to visit my wife's aunt."

A great light dawned on the sergeant. He summoned officers and spoke to them in this manner:

"Take this fellow to a station where he can get a train. Visit his wife's aunt. And don't bother me any more."

Miss Cannon relinquished the title which she held in 1928 and 1929 to Miss Page in the finals of the state tournament at Wisconsin Rapids last year. Tomorrow's match will again determine who is the master and will leave the winner comparatively easy opponent in the final.

HUNGARY TO EXTEND MEASURES IN CRISIS

Budapest, Hungary.—(AP)—Emergency measures to meet the financial crisis in Hungary will be extended despite the reassuring fact that depositors withdrew only 13 per cent of their deposits from the banks last week, instead of the 5 per cent permitted under the emergency order. The government announced that all reasonable industrial demands would be met.

THIRD ORDER OF ST. FRANCIS TO MEET IN AUGUST

Appleton Delegates Going to Convention in San Francisco

The Rev. William Peters, O. M. Cap, spiritual director of the Third Order of St. Francis in Appleton, and the Misses Alma and Ella Zebell, will represent St. Joseph fraternity at the third national convention of the order in San Francisco, Calif. Aug. 8, 10 and 11.

The Third Order of St. Francis is the oldest Catholic order exclusively for lay folk, having been established 710 years ago by St. Francis of Assisi, from whom it bears its name. Open to all classes of society, men and women, priests as well as laymen, it has been a democratizing influence within the church. The present Pope, Pius XI, himself was a member of the order for over 53 years, has frequently recommended the potency of the Third Order for solving the social problems of the day.

Franciscan Tertiaries are pledged to exemplify the rule of moderation in all things, fraternal charity, and the diffusion of the Christ-like spirit of St. Francis in domestic and social life. The order has more than 100,000 members in the United States and Canada, among them many priests and bishops. The local fraternity of the order which was established at St. Joseph church in 1884, has about 400 members.

National conventions of the Third Order of St. Francis are held about every five years on the occasion of some important commemorative event of the order. The forthcoming convention will mark the seven hundredth anniversary of its patroness, St. Elizabeth of Hungary, and the seventh centenary of St. Anthony, the most popular figure in the Franciscan order after its founder, St. Francis. The San Francisco convention will be of unusual interest because it is said that the scenes followed by the earliest Franciscan associations with American history. The convention program includes a demonstration at the tomb of Fray Junipero Serra at Carmel.

DESCRIBES PLAN FOR AUSTRO-GERMAN PACT

The Hague, Holland.—(AP)—The projected Austro-German customs union would be provided with an elastic arbitration commission, Dr. Erich Kaufman, Austrian attorney, told the permanent court for international justice today.

Dr. Kaufman was answering a criticism by the French government that a majority on the commission would result in thus infringing on other party's independence of action.

"The question of the commission's personnel is still open," Dr. Kaufman said, "and it is probable that we might select the most outstanding figure of either country for the chairmanship, rotating the office between Austrians and Germans."

The arbitration commission would settle arguments arising from the collection of tariffs, expansion of the customs union and division of net proceeds from the tariffs.

COOL RESPONSE GIVEN SECOND DEBT PROPOSAL

Reception in Wall Street of Hoover's Plan Not Warm

BY CARLTON A. SHIVELY
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—President Hoover's second formal plan for a solution of the German financial and economic difficulties has met with a rather cool reception in Wall Street.

Government statisticians estimated this country's share of short term bank credit extended to German banks, industrial and institutions at $500,000,000 or virtually half the total employed in Germany for all lending countries.

Recently numerous estimates were made of withdrawals of credits and funds from Germany, those following and immediately preceding the first Hoover debt moratorium plan being estimated at $500,000,000. Those in a position to check up on such matters think that very little of that exodus was for this country's account. To begin with, it was by no means all credit. It had the net result, according to federal reserve board calculation of adding $200,000,000 to this country's gold stock, partly through imports of metal from Germany and partly through releases of gold under earmark at the federal reserve bank. This was an indirect way for Germany to send gold here, since the gold released belonged to France and was bought by Germany.

Money Is Mobile

A distinction should be made between credit withdrawals, mere transfers of bank funds seeking employment, and the "flight" from the mark of German private capital. Money is mobile and flows to the center of greatest attraction; that is, to the place where interest rates are highest, combined with reasonable safety. Large amounts of bank capital have been attracted to Berlin because of the high interest rates. This money was in no sense credit. Most of it has been withdrawn. Germans anxious to get their money out of the country, fearing collapse of the mark, withdrew deposits or borrowed money and bought foreign exchange, establishing deposits in foreign banks. This has been stopped by government decree and the partial closing of the banks.

Short term credits, strictly speaking, have largely remained in Germany, particularly those made by American banks. These credits have been granted by thousands of banks throughout the country, although, of course, the large Wall Street institutions are the most heavily involved. In practice, they are already fairly well congealed, since any attempt to draw them in would endanger further the German financial structure. President Hoover is urging that they be extended, either for an indefinite period or for a fixed time.

Oppose Further Aid

Some relief is felt in Wall Street that the rumored plan of the administration did not find public expression. Wall Street bankers had feared that this country might propose a fixation of existing short term credits for a period of two years, and in addition a large federal reserve bank credit, similar to that granted the bank of England in 1925. Under the plan the bank of England was empowered to buy gold at any time from the reserve bank in exchange for prime bills. Reserve bank authorities, it is understood, oppose further central bank aid to Germany at this time, feeling that in extending the $25,000,000 credit recently made and by continuing to discount German bills for the member banks, as they are now doing, the reserve banks are going far enough.

What President Hoover is really doing is to urge the banks to continue the status quo. They would have done that anyway, but are somewhat nervous at any suggestion that they bind themselves not to call a loan. Bankers think such an obligation would increase rather than diminish confidence in German credit and that, once the end came to a moratorium period, calling would be so precipitate as to bring on another crisis.

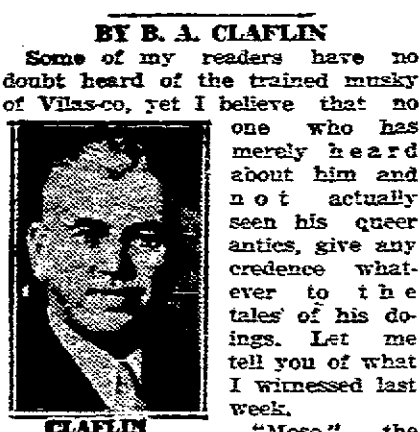

Wall Street agrees with the president that Germany should continue to put plans for self help into effect and that eventually a long term loan must be made to consolidate short term credit. It is glad to know that Washington recognizes the fact that fresh money, either for long or short term lending, cannot be obtained by Germany in this country at this time. For the rest, the presidential statement was a summary of the situation as it now exists.

U. S. CHAMBER BACKS HEALTH CONSERVATION

In an effort to improve civic health conditions in the country, the chamber of commerce of the United States will sponsor an inter-chamber health conservation contest throughout the United States, similar to previous contests.

The object of the contest is to enlist the interest of local commercial organizations in health work, thereby assisting in the reduction of economic losses in the United States from unnecessary illness and premature deaths. Through the organization of health committees, a civic group will plan and conduct a health

"Mose," Trained Musky, Lives In Squirrel Lake

CLAFIN
Jansen is "Mose's" trainer. About 7 o'clock he comes down and opens the live bait box, and "Mose" then moves very slightly in anticipation of the coming treat.

We gathered in closely in order not to miss any of the performance. "I am going to let 'Mose' take this sucker from my hand," said Earl.

"Watch closely, but you won't see him take it. Your eye is not quick enough."

We watched. The moment Earl let the head of the sucker touch the surface of the water there was a terrific plunge amid a swirl of white foam and the sucker was gone. It was true, we could not see the act. It was unbelievable. So incredibly fast is "Mose" that he has the sucker and is gone with it before one's eye can follow his movements. In a few moments, however, he is back on the job ready for another hand-out.

On one occasion he overshoot the mark a bit and for weeks Earl nursed a sore thumb with fifteen holes in it made by the musky's teeth. But this carelessness on the part of his pet does not deter Earl from carrying out the same program each morning for the amusement of his guests.

And here is another phase of the remarkable thing that makes it appear still more incredible: William Jansen, Earl's father, takes "Mose" from the water whenever he pleases, and the fish scarcely moves until he is again placed in his native element. In that way Mr. Jansen keeps tab on the growth of the fish. He merely holds him above the surface of the water while someone lays a yardstick along "Mose's" side. He has grown seven inches during the last three years, being now 37 inches in length.

Movie reels have been made of "Mose" and his doings. They have been shown in Milwaukee and Chicago. Visitors come to Squirrel Lake Lodge from every state in the Union to see this remarkable fish. Col. Tom Bascom, the noted writer was there to verify or expose the matter. The result was that he wrote a long story of this strange occurrence in the Field and Stream magazine, and the article was brought to the attention of President Hoover who read it, being a fisherman himself, and then told the Chief Justice that he considered Tom Bascom the biggest liar in the United States.

Ripley, who handles the "Believe it or not" column refused to use an account of "Mose." He did not believe the incident, yet it is absolutely true in every detail that I have spoken of.

"Mose" has been faithful to the Jansens for the last five years and during that time he has not missed being fed his breakfast.

In granting the railroad authority to abandon the line in Langlade County, the Commission ordered that a certificate be issued effective thirty days after its date.

In petitioning for authority to abandon the branch line, the railroad stated that the only population in the territory served by the Hollister branch is at Sawyer Lake, a summer resort, about three miles from the end of the line and estimated that continued operation would result in an annual loss of $3,000.

program in the city, and health data will be collected for a period over a year's time. The main items under consideration are the organization and equipment of the local departments for disease control, financial support of health, both official and voluntary facilities for health information and education. Conditions of water connections, sewage disposal and milk supply will also be a part of the survey.

Competition in the contest will be divided into six groups according to population of the various city entries. The Appleton Chamber of Commerce has made no plans to enter the contest this year.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
New York—It was a nervous little man with a toothbrush moustache who seized command of Germany's 5,000,000 new voters, and not the steel helmet leaguers, with their corrugated necks and rich, bassoon voices. Whether or not the waspish little Adolf Hitler voices the new Germany, he voices something important, when he telegraphs Chancellor Brüning that the recalcitrants of the right wing will not be bound by obligations assumed in consideration of credits.

Hitler, leader of German Fascism, was an Austrian carpenter with a nimble tongue. Enlisting in the German army at the outbreak of the war, he lost his citizenship and failed to get German citizenship. This did not restrain his busy efforts in trying to seize and operate Germany. An interloper in the war, he goose-stepped into the rathskellar of the Munich hall in 1923, with General Erich Ludendorff, at the head of a "putsch" which was to seize the realm.

Revolutions were verboten just then, and Hitler was dragged out from under a table, after an encounter with the police. The revolt was washed up in a national wave of mellow and heavy ironic laughter. Germany gave her amusing little Sancho Panza only one year in jail.

Out again, the wiry Herr Hitler bounced back quicker than a rubber check. In September, 1930, German burghers blinked and gasped when they read that Hitler's Fascists had gained 107 seats in the reichstag and become the second largest political party in Germany. The fiery and apostolic little orator kept on agitating and getting the crowds. His program appears to be a blend of militarism, socialism, bolshevism, nationalism, anti-Republicanism, and anti-Semitism, with a dash of pan-ania and a few college bells. In the flux and ferment of post-war Germany, Hitler distilled a brand of oratorical white mud which seemed to fill a long felt want among the more unhappy and bewildered citizens—particularly German youth. He may look like a harassed bookkeeper, but he enters today, lower right, and steps right up to the footlights.

"The Communist czar of America" is the title frequently given William Zebulon Foster, marshaling the Paterson, New Jersey, silk workers for a strike in the city's 900 mills. Foster, running for the presidency or resting in jail, is a walking anthology of radical doctrine and the author of many tracts and treatises on the changing orthodoxes of unorthodox beliefs.

Born in Taunton, Mass., of English, Irish and Scotch antecedents, he went to sea at 11 and became a member of the seamen's union. Believing in "boring from within" he later joined several other unions and became the implacable foe of the late Samuel Gompers and of William Green. With ten others he was tried for "criminal syndicalism" in St. Joseph, Mo., in 1923 and was saved from prison by a hung jury. Last year he served a six-month sentence, after the union square disturbance here in March.

However, it is sadly admitted by Foster's conferees that he is the Dante of the American movement. In 1917, he was a "war shouter," buying Liberty bonds and crying lustily for the utter obliteration of Germany. He later renounced this heresy and spent tumultuous years in fights with other comrades, ousting Scott Nearing, Benjamin Gitlow, and Ellen Dawson. New Bedford Joan of Arc, from the party, in person, he is mild and bookish.

For the first time in the career of William S. Vare, it appears that the "thrones and dominions" of the venerable Philadelphia boss are crumbling. Powerful republican leaders, backing the mayoralty candidacy of George H. Eiles, Vare's political enemy, lead an apostasy which Vare has never before encountered.

in his home town. Vare's last sensational battle was when, crippled and half paralyzed, he went to Washington to defend his senate seat against the savage attacks by Senator Norris. He lost this fight, Dec. 6, 1929, by a senate vote of 58 to 22. Norris had raised the issue on Vare's expenditure of $785,000 in the primary campaign. Born in Philadelphia 63 years ago, he entered politics in 1898, when he was made a member of the city council and later became recorder of deeds and congressman. He is almost the last of the old time political bosses to survive Tom Taggart of Indiana, who died three years ago.

EMPLOYMENT AND CHARITY

Estimates by city officials and by citizens more or less conversant with the situation indicate that between $80,000 and $100,000 will be required from October of this year until autumn of 1932 to provide food, clothing, fuel, housing and other necessities to unemployed and needy persons in Appleton. At least $60,000 was expended for these purposes this year and the situation the coming fall and winter undoubtedly will be more serious than in 1930 and 1931.

The larger part of this expenditure is due of course to an abnormal employment situation. Several hundred men able to sustain themselves and their families when work is available are at the end of their resources and are obliged to accept help from others because they have no way of helping themselves. These men don't want charity, they don't want to be dependents; they want jobs. But they must live, and their families must live, and in order to live they are forced to accept charity unless work can be provided for them.

Mayor Goodland, we believe, presented the matter clearly when he said that the city might use a portion of the money that will go for poor relief to pay for public improvements on which men can be given employment. Not only will the city then receive something for the money it spends, but it will help sustain the self respect and the confidence of the men it employs.

A great deal might be done here next fall and winter to furnish employment provided the problem is sympathetically and carefully approached. The emergency might even be a blessing in disguise by compelling the city to plan its improvement program for several years in advance so that preparatory work can be done this year. A program for separation of sanitary and storm sewers involves also a program of street paving, and if the council now will lay out a permanent street improvement plan for say, the next five years, it can begin at once to separate sewers on the selected streets so they will be ready when it is time to pave. There still are miles of streets on which the sewers must be separated and it should not be an extremely difficult task to lay out a program for fall and winter work.

No doubt there are other projects which the city council or city commissions might undertake this year, all of which would provide employment and at the same time give the city some value for money it will have to spend for unemployment relief. No doubt something can be done toward extending the interceptor sewer, probably some park improvements might be made, perhaps public buildings and schools can be painted and repaired, street equipment put in better condition. Public property surely isn't in such perfect condition that nothing can be done to improve it.

The county also is in a position to be of service by giving employment during the winter. More hand labor and less machinery might be used for snow removal, and no doubt there are other avenues available for furnishing employment to men who want it.

There is nothing new or startling in this proposal. More than one community already has demonstrated that unemployment can be materially reduced and worthwhile public improvements carried out at an expense comparable with the cost of doing out charity.

It is true, as Mayor Goodland pointed out, that any program undertaken by the city should not contemplate a tax increase at a time when many property owners are in no position to pay any tax at all. Every effort must be made by the city and its subordinate commissions and boards to curtail expenditures that do not involve labor, so that taxes might be reduced if possible.

Money to carry on the work designed to furnish employment can be obtained from short time bond issues. While it may not be good practice to borrow for current expenses, this is an emergency which must be met by whatever means are at hand.

A problem fully as pressing and important as that of providing work is the dispensing of help to those who, for various reasons, cannot do the work the city offers. Many thousands of dollars will go to these temporary and permanent indigents and it is essential that a plan be devised for dispensing this help without waste. It is highly improbable that a public campaign for funds, similar to the one conducted last year, will provide any appreciable sum of money and as a result it will be necessary for the municipality to shoulder the burden. The city poor department, as presently organized, is poorly equipped to deal with the huge task confronting it and steps must be taken now to set the house in order for fall and winter.

The task before our city government is no envious one, but nothing will be gained by putting it off. Delay may mean more suffering and more expense.

PERHAPS THERE WASN'T ANY REVOLUTION

As part of the program in celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, Yorktown is going to have a pageant. But someone suggested asking the Federal Department of State whether or not it would be advisable to include in it the surrender of Lord Cornwallis and his army.

Says an official of the state department: "For fear of wounding the sensibilities of a nation that has long since ceased to bear the least resentment on account of that famous surrender" it were better to leave the British general and his army out of the picture.

Fortunately the advice will not be accepted until, at least, it is approved by Secretary of State Stimson to whom it has been submitted.

Why have the pageant at all if the only thing for which Yorktown is famous be omitted?

Must we in the future celebrate General Washington's birthday without reference to the Revolution or at least speak of it in whispers lest some people of British ancestry have their sensibilities wounded? We fear that the under-secretary who gave that opinion was an unusually timid soul. Washington could never have won with an army of that mettle.

Yorktown would be without a place in history were it not for the fact that there General Washington with the aid of the French Admiral de Grasse cornered Lord Cornwallis and his troops and so hemmed them in on every side that the only alternative of slaughter was surrender.

The battle of Yorktown represents the culmination of years of patience and fine strategy against the flower of the British army. With the loss of Burgoyne's army earlier and the loss of this splendid army that was pre-saged to crush the rebels, England became weary of providing the funds, and Englishmen tired of carrying on the battle with a foe that it considered beneath it but one that somehow or other crushed its fondest hopes into the dust.

That we have had over a century of peace with England, that we respect the English people, their stubborn adherence to liberal ways and sound morals, their rational handling of great questions and their well earned place in the sum, must not close our eyes to the clear truth of history that the English government of 1776 was an entirely different affair.

The 200th anniversary of General Washington's birthday must never be attended by any such sluggish and supine conduct.

Do we want the general to turn over in his grave?

STANDARD WOMAN
The Drapers' Chamber of Trade has set itself a severe task in trying to define the dimensions of the standard woman. The average woman of London or Cardiff, or of Aberdeen might indeed be satisfactorily identified and measured, but to decide which of any of these deserves to be called the standard woman of the British Isles is likely to produce a debate as endless as the rather simple dispute concerning whether the correct English accent is that of Oxford, Manchester, or Edinburgh.

Still, the drapers have to do something. They cannot evade the issue that arises when the woman accustomed to wearing stock sizes in York-shire finds herself regarded as a grannie in another part of the country. But surely the solution is not so very difficult. Hat-makers and shoemakers have long evolved it; they mark their sizes with simple numbers, without feeling the need to determine what is the standard hat or foot. Why should not the intermediate garments be similarly treated?—London (England) The Daily Mail.

The lack of rain around here lately brings to mind the story about the rancher in the ultra-arid district out west. One day, storm clouds began to gather and a visitor, pointing at them, asked—

"I suppose you hope it'll rain, don't you?"
"Wal, for my sake I don't care much—I seen it rain—but I'd like to have my sons see one."

New feminine hats, which pull down over one eye and make the lady look like she was in or hunting for a fight are attracting some masculine attention. And if the gals are sure it's unfavorable attention, they'll simply flock to the new helmets, even if you can't understand 'em, they're sure to do things like that.

Will some of our bright-eyed contributors please to send something in pretty soon? The nearer we get to our vacation, the weaker our resistance becomes. Some one of these days we're gonna miss the deadline entirely and then where'll you be? (Not to mention us.)

It is discovered that 20 officers on the Chicago police force have been driving around in autos with stolen license tags on 'em. As long as they were doing that much of a job, they should have picked up new cars the same way.

THE LITTLE OFFICE PLANT

High above the noisy street,
Upon an office window sill,
Far from the tramp of human feet,
Almost as if against its will,
A potted plant of summer green
By hotel tenants can be seen.

All else is drab and drear,
Too high the spot for singing birds,
That lonely little plant can hear
Only machines and human words.
It scarce can see the summer sky
And has no neighbors dwelling by.

Within the room a business man
Sits sternly at his desk all day,
Cons figures and appears to plan
Grave matters in a somber way,
As if his every thought were bent
On trade and office management.

He simulates a love of power
In rooms where men of force abide,
And yet that lonely little flower
Strangely betrays his tender side.
As if that man of iron will
Had left his soul upon the sill.

Personal Health Talks

BOYS SHOULD BOX AND GIRLS BE GRACEFUL

If I had my way every boy in grammar school would be required to show a reasonable proficiency in boxing as the art is taught in school, and every girl would be required to show reasonable proficiency in dancing, as that art is taught in school, as a requisite for graduation. I would have every boy prepared to settle his disputes or differences with other boys by an encounter in the ring, under proper supervision. I would have every girl blessed with the gracefulness and the self-confidence which comes from the study of dancing. Both boys and girls, I believe, should be required to know how to swim and of course how to resuscitate before they are allowed to pass on to high school.

To narrow old pedagogues who had no such physical education and who cannot appreciate its importance or value this will seem absurd. Whatever the old timers may think about these newfangled fads and fables, it is assuring to note that our new school buildings, both grammar schools and high schools, are splurging more and more on the equipment for this side of the child's education, and even now in a few schools the physical education teachers are almost on a plane with the teachers who train 'em from the neck up. In the less progressive schools, however, the physical education department still takes the snubs from the hoity-toity side and hides its day.

Parents of the peasant class do not understand what it is all about. To them—as to antiquated pedagogues—all this gymnasium, swimming and field activity is a crazy thing. What the old timers may think about these newfangled fads and fables, it is assuring to note that our new school buildings, both grammar schools and high schools, are splurging more and more on the equipment for this side of the child's education, and even now in a few schools the physical education teachers are almost on a plane with the teachers who train 'em from the neck up. In the less progressive schools, however, the physical education department still takes the snubs from the hoity-toity side and hides its day.

The jerk, however, made the horse perk up a bit and then, of course, he started running very fast. Poor Clowdy shouted, "Whoa! You'll send us all into a spill and we don't like that sort of thrill." The horse kept right on running fast, and my, how he could go!

The buggy, being very light, was bounding to the left and right. The Tynmites began to get as frightened as could be. Then, suddenly, a little lad dashed out with all the speed he had. He grabbed the horse around the neck. It was a sight to see.

The horse slowed down and shortly stopped, and to the street the brave lad dropped. "Good! The horse has stopped. The lad looked up, still brave and bold and said, "On, no! I just my hold." And then he jumped up to his feet and he was safe and sound.

The Travel Man then joined the bunch. Said he, "I have a happy hunch that this lad needs a fine reward for rescuing you boys." He gave the boy a bill for two and said, "I'm sure you all thank you." The Tynmites broke in a cheer and made a heap of noise.

The Travel Man then said, "Let's skip. We're going to board a great big ship and sail for Honolulu. I will promise, when we reach that port, you'll have a lot of fun." They sailed before the day was done, and the bunch was playing on a beach. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

A Bystander In Washington

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — In the impressive uniform of a member of the privy council, with much gold braid and a clanking sword, a short, slightly bald and handsome young man called on President Hoover recently.

To the President, William Duncan Herridge, Canada's new minister to Washington, presented his credentials.

The day was hot—much too hot for a man to be abroad in such attire.

And to make matters worse, nearly stood another diplomat—Col. Harold MacNider, United States minister to Canada—who had come down from Ottawa for the occasion.

Broad smiles flitted across MacNider's face as he watched the discomfiture of his friend Herridge. For the American minister, too, wore a colonel's uniform when he presented his credentials at Ottawa. He knew just what Herridge was suffering.

Outstanding Young Man

Major Herridge, wearer of the distinguished service order and the military cross, a son-in-law and confidant of the premier of Canada, is only 42-years-old.

Known to his intimates as "Bill," he comes to Washington as his country's diplomatic representative without previous experience in public office, but with the reputation of being one of the outstanding young men of Canada.

He is expected to be particularly effective in the United States at this time because of his wide acquaintance and intimacy with this country's business leaders. As a lawyer in Ottawa, he had many American clients who had business interests in Canada.

Premier Bennett in announcing his appointment to Washington stated that it was his belief no man in Canada would be more acceptable to the United States as Canadian minister than would Herridge.

His efforts in Canada toward forming the Canadian league—an organization of young men, mostly world war veterans, who would meet in various cities to discuss governmental problems, was his first activity in politics.

Bennett's Adviser

In promoting this organization he traveled all over the dominion, making friends in every section. In the last general election, he went with Bennett as his adviser.

Bennett thought so much of him that Herridge served as the premier's right hand man at the last important conference. When Bennett visited Washington early this year, Herridge accompanied him.

Robust and of engaging manner, the new minister dislikes formal society which will be his lot as a member of the Washington diplomatic corps. But his dinner parties in Ottawa have been famous.

Today's Anniversary

FLEA TO IROOPS

On July 23, 1917, the executive council of the all-Russian Workmen's and Soldiers' and Peasants' organizations issued a proclamation to the Russian troops urging them to "save the fatherland." The proclamation read in part:

"Fellow soldiers: One of our armies has wavered, its regiments have fled before the enemy. We are responsible for this humiliation! The responsibility rests with those who have spread discord in the army and shaken its discipline, with those who at a time of danger disobeyed the military commands and wasted time in fruitless discussion and disputes."

"Enough of words! The time has come to act. We are in a position to achieve the triumph of the revolutionary government. With the government we have the salvation of the revolution. We have acknowledged its unlimited authority and unlimited power. Its commands must be law."

"Fellow soldiers: You are being watched by those who work for Russia and for the whole world. The rule of the Russian revolution speaks for all. Summon up all your manhood, your perseverance and sense of discipline and save the fatherland!"

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, deserving the highest tribute for their magnificent flight of less than nine days around the world, reached New York at just the right time to experience their full share.

It is a healthful thing for this nervous city to let go of its emotions often, and it takes every advantage. Sometimes it wastes enthusiasm on the undeserving; sometimes its laudations are divided by rival claims of one so that extraordinary performances seem to be deprived of some of the recognition due.

But the men who described that historic circle around the globe in the Winline Mae returned when New York had known boredom for awhile; when nothing good of magnitude had happened to stir the populace for too long a while.

New York has been in a brooding mood for many months. Recent international developments renewed some optimism, but most of the citizenry long ago grew skeptical of forecasts and impatient for fulfillment of promises of better days.

Thus a tossing overboard of restraint, such as characterized the greeting of the Oklahoman and the Australian, is as remedial for the community neurosis as shouting at a sports event is beneficial for the individual who has labored under tension.

It is well that the modest Post and Gatty did not have to share this flow of feeling with flippers contesting for honors, somersault marathon winners or election victors.

They rated every cheer. And those New Yorkers who were out of hearing of the cheer derived some stimulation from even so little as a glance at those page one streamer headlines.

Bare Facts

Three 1931 Galveston beauty contest winners, whose titles were captured largely because of their championship in bathing suits, are on display briefly in the new "Follies," wearing the most conservative of evening gowns.

They are Netta Deuschateau of Belgium, Miss Universe; Anne Lee Patterson of Ludlow, Ky., Miss United States, and Lena Thomas of Memphis, third in the rating.

But Faith Bacon, who performed that sensational fan dance in the last "Follies" of Ziegfeld's indelible rival for revue honors, Earl Carroll, is permitted to appear in the "Follies" in her familiar state of awe-inspiring undress.

When the Ziegfeld show was trying-out in Pittsburgh, Broadway chewed on a choice morsel of gossip to the effect that the Great Glorifier, having annexed Carroll's prize beauty, had taken a poke at his adversary by dropping Miss Bacon as unfit for his production.

Now it is said the rumor started because Miss Bacon missed a performance, due to a tummy ache, sore ankle, or something.

She was, however, at the last minute deprived of a dance number more daring than the fan dance which interested New York's modest police chief last night. "The Split of the Follies," and, as such, the audience sees as much of her as it should expect.

Some men get the key to the city, others get the gate.

RADIO SETS NOT SO NUMEROUS AS WAS ESTIMATED

Figures Revealed by Census Prove Disappointing to Industry

BY ROBERT MACK

Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press Washington—(CPA)—Uncle Sam's "nose-count" of radio receiving sets in the United States, taken last year as a part of the regular population census, is proving most disappointing to the radio industry.

Already reports have been computed by the United States census bureau covering 34 states and the District of Columbia, with only 4,165,510 receiving sets reported. The industry had estimated that some 15,000,000 sets were in use.

It must be pointed out, however, that among the 14 states unaccounted for are the most populous areas in the country and therefore the most "radio-minded." These include such states as New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, California, Ohio, Missouri and New Jersey, and when these returns are computed the total doubtless will be swelled considerably.

At best, nevertheless, radio officials now feel that the census will hardly show more than 10,000,000 sets. On that basis it is expected that between 40 and 50 per cent of the families of last year will report sets as of last April 1, when the population census was taken.

In the 34 states and the District of Columbia which already have been analyzed as to "radio population," there were 12,941,553 families with 4,165,510, or 32.2 per cent, reporting sets. Even with this information the final result, expected by fall, remains conjectural.

Many Midget Sales Since the radio set census was taken, of course, there have been many set sales. Midget sets particularly have been sold in large numbers because of their low price level and the appreciated buying power of the public. The industry estimates that there are 5 listeners to each set and on that basis, should the final count show 10,000,000 sets as of last April, the maximum listening audience at that time will be established at 50,000,000.

Latest releases of the census bureau relate to Michigan, Virginia, Minnesota and North Carolina. Michigan had a total of 1,183,157 families as of April 1, last year, with 599,196 or 50.9 per cent reporting sets. Minnesota had 603,389 families with 376,026, or 47.3 per cent reporting sets. In an aggregate number of families in Virginia was 530,092, with 95,569 or 18.2 per cent reporting sets. While North Carolina had 645,254 families of which 72,929, or 11.2 per cent had sets.

In the returns thus far received, Connecticut leads with 54.9 per cent of its families owning sets. The District of Columbia was second with an average of 53.9 per cent, Wisconsin third with 51.1 per cent, and Michigan fourth with 50.6 per cent. Others thus far tabulated are below 50 per cent, with Mississippi bringing up the rear with an average of only 5.4 per cent.

FLASHES OF LIFE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Knoxville, Tenn.—There is still a piece of Confederate hard tack left. Joseph Morrison of Cadiz, Ohio, a Union soldier has a chunk which he obtained in a raid on Fort McAllister at Savannah, Ga. It has the date, Dec. 13, 1865, carved on it.

Oyster Bay, N. Y. — A famous cndgel is destined to adorn a public park. When President Roosevelt was a commuter between Oyster Bay and New York, he gave a big stick, fashioned from a Vermont sapling, and presented by an admirer in 1912, to Joseph Kertz, conductor of the commutation train. Kertz plans to present it to Oyster Bay.

Vienna — Aviation news from Bucharest. The Rumanian Army Air school is about to enroll its youngest student. King Carol has ordered that Crown Prince Michael take a course in aviation.

London—It is nearly 300 years since a member of the Hoare family began sleeping at the bank. The custom still prevails. Hoare's is the oldest private bank in England. Ancestors of some of its present clients did business there 370 years ago. Samuel Pepys overdraw his account £13 in 1699. Patrons are still offered snuff.

New York — News photographers will have time to get their lunch and get back. John R. Voorhis, grand sachem of Tammany, will be 102 next Monday, but, he says, no more pictures until he is 203.

London—An old shop in Wardour-st, patronized by actors for 50 years, is about to close. Willy Clarkson, who took over the business of making stage wigs at the death of his father, is retiring. In Queen Victoria's reign he was frequently called to Windsor to make up children of the royal household for amateur theatricals.

Brecon, Wales — Charles A. Williams is a digger. Time hung heavy on his hands when the mines were closed so he went to college. He earned a degree and first honors in philosophy.

Sydney, Australia — George Benson is back from a visit to his home in Sweden. He came in a 25-foot sloop boat by way of the West Indies and the Panama canal.

London—Edgar Wallace has so many brain children he can't remember them all. Testifying in court he said he had written 150 books but has forgotten the characters in some of them. "And if you hadn't had to come here today I probably would have been 131," the judge commented.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE SENSE OF PERILS OVERCOME

HUMAN nature loves danger skillfully calculated and overcome. Tranquillity palls. This is one of the fundamental reasons for the great popularity of competitive games, such as most athletic contests and such as intellectual recreations typifying an intellectual struggle like Contract.

This is also one of the reasons why the general bidding of four-card suits (in preference to notrump), when introduced by the writer several years ago, gained such rapid and general acceptance. Of course, we want our perils marked. We like to have the rocks of distribution buoyed so that we may know a little about just where we should study our chart most closely. The writer found it necessary to safeguard the bidding of four-card suits by providing that they should not be supported with less trump strength than four small or an honor as good as the Queen and two small. Even so, there may be five or six trumps outstanding, with the chances of an unfavorable break. The four-card suit bid still furnishes its aid. One adversary may hold four or even five of the trumps bunched in his hand.

From Baltimore comes the hand which furnished the text of today's article. South dealt these cards:

♠ 10 9 5 3
♥ K Q J 10 7
♦ J
♣ A K J

♥ A 9 5 4 3
♦ Q 6 2
♣ Q 10 4 2

♠ A K 7 6 2
♥ E 8 6 2
♦ W 5 4 3
♣ S 7 6 3

♠ A K Q J 8
♥ 9 5 5
♦ A K 10 9 8 7
♣ 9 5 5

The bidding:

South West North East
1♠ Pass 2♥ (1) Pass
3♦ (2) Pass 3♥ (3) Pass
3♠ (4) Pass 5♦ (5) Pass
6♠ (6) Pass Pass Pass

1—North, holding three-one-half honor-tricks, makes a Forcing or Jump Takeout. This commits the partnership to continuing the bidding until a game contract or a penalty double is reached.
2—While South's hand is far above the minimum bidding strength, he does not make the Spade response as he is assured of another opportunity to bid by reason of his partner's Forcing Takeout. He first rebids his six-card diamond suit before showing his biddable four-card Spade suit.
3—North, holding four sure tricks, in trumps first re-bids his heart suit. A Jump or Forcing two heart bid by North shows game strength and both partners are now assured that the bidding will not be dropped below a game contract, hence the leisurely but deliberate manner of unfolding the information.

4—South now bids his Spades. The bidding of the four-card suit at this range of the game is quite safe, as he had previously bid his diamonds twice.
5—The "fit" of the hands has been found at last! North with four spades feels sure that 5 spades can be made. This bid of five is a Slam suggestion, asking partner to aid it provided the hand is somewhat stronger than the bidding has already shown.
6—South can "place" from bidding the club Ace—spade length, a strong heart suit—and risks the Slam—a justified risk.

The Play

West lacked a desirable opening against the Slam bid. To lay down the Ace of hearts, as many players would be inclined to do, would make South's task of taking 12 tricks comparatively simple. The four-card club suit, due to its tenace holding, is also undesirable. The opening of the diamond suit, bid by South, inasmuch as West holds a stopper in that suit, is weak, but to lead the spade, through possible spade tricks in East's hand, is unthinkable. A small club was chosen as the least of evils. South refused the finesse. It was apparent that a finesse must be taken in the trump suit and to take the club finesse at once would result in disaster, should the club Queen win and the spade King be found in West's hand. The club King was played and a low spade was led and the finesse won.

South now laid down Ace and King of diamonds and trumped the third lead in dummy. The diamond suit must be established and the work of suit establishment and drawing opponent's trumps was carried on simultaneously.

The second lead of spades shows that South has found about as bad a split as possible. West had no more trumps. However, the law of compensation operated to his advantage, in that the diamonds "broke".

East held two spades, the King and the 7. South still has the Ace and Queen and in the dummy there remained the 9. South reviewed the play and recalled that West's opening lead was the club deuce. This could not have been a singleton lead, and was probably fourth best, leaving with East two more clubs. The club finesse became entirely immaterial. South led a club going up with the Ace and led Dummy's last spade through East's tenace. The last spade was drawn and South then ran down his established diamonds, conceding a club trick at the end.

RAILROADS HIT HARD DURING SLUMP PERIOD

Revenues Fell Off Sharply After Beginning of Depression in 1929

(This is the fourth and last of a series of articles relating to the American railroads in connection with their plea before the Interstate Commerce commission for a 15 per cent freight rate increase.)

BY SEYMOUR BERKSON
(Copyright, 1931, By Associated Press)

New York — (AP) — The present plight of the American railroads was in part precipitated by the depression which struck the United States at the end of 1929.

Until then, the railroads had managed to get along, partially compensated by an increased freight business for the steady loss of passenger traffic.

But once the thunderbolt struck Wall-st and its resounding effect began to be felt throughout the nation, freight revenues took a nose-dive and the railroads found themselves balanced perilously on a financial tight-rope.

Not only have falling revenues caused a sharp drop in rail stocks but investment experts say that the stability of $5,748,509,000 worth of railroad bonds has been so impaired they are threatened with being taken off the legal lists of investments approved for insurance companies and savings banks.

And that is the picture which rail officials have been presenting before the Interstate Commerce commission in connection with their SOS for a 15 per cent freight rate increase.

Such an increase, the railroads maintain, would provide enough additional revenue to safeguard the rate of earnings required by law before insurance companies and banks may legally invest their funds in railroad bonds.

Because these companies and banks already have some $4,700,000,000 invested in such bonds, hundreds of thousands of savings depositors and insurance policyholders are vitally interested in the proceedings now underway before the commerce commission in Washington.

Meet Opposition

The efforts of the railroads to obtain a freight rate increase is expected to be vigorously opposed by organized groups of farmers and by some economists who contend that higher rates may aggravate rather than alleviate the crisis because of possible stimulation to competitive modes of transportation.

Comparative figures on railroad earnings for the first ten months of 1929 and 1930 reflect the effect not only of the general business depression but also of the growing challenge from these competitors of "the iron horse."

For the 1930 period, freight car loadings of the Class 1 carriers—which comprise 90 per cent of the country's total rail mileage—were 6,015,829 cars less than during the same ten month period of 1929.

Translated into dollars and cents that shrinkage, together with the continued decrease in passenger traffic, represented a drop of $333,414,019 in net operating income of the Class 1 carriers. The net income decreased from $1,155,511,580 for the first ten months of 1929 to $772,427,561 for the same period of 1930—a 44 per cent shrinkage.

Surplus for Dividends Dividends during 1930 were paid by some of the roads only because they dipped into the surplus of their subsidiaries. Interest on bonds was earned by narrower margins.

To avoid making a worse showing, many of the railroads have postponed repairs, rehabilitation work, and improvements.

Fairman R. Dick, New York investment expert, who testified before the Interstate Commerce commission in Washington July 15, likened the flight of capital from the railroad industry to the crisis experienced by Germany.

He declared that rail stocks which had an aggregate market value of $10,331,082,000 in 1929 had dropped to $4,084,067,000 on June 1 of this year, increasing the ratio of indebtedness to capital values from 49 per cent in 1929 to 72 per cent as compared with the legal limit of 60 per cent considered conservative for real estate loans.

To avert disaster, restoration of public confidence in railroad securities is essential, the railroads contend.

And the immediate avenue by which this can best be accomplished, they maintain, is the proposed increase of 15 per cent in the freight rates which they are authorized by the Interstate Commerce commission to charge shippers.

Big Crowds See Plays At Church

LARGE audiences attended both performances of "Cyclone Sally" by Eugene Hafer, which was given Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at St. Paul Lutheran school auditorium, under the auspices of the Senior Young People's society. The cast was letter perfect in lines and showed ability and remarkable ease on the stage.

Winifred Schultz and Maribel Bell, in the leading roles, were well cast and played their parts in a pleasing manner. Gerald Herzfeldt, as Reggie Hanners, an Englishman, was especially good, as was Orme Stach, as Willie Klump, a country boy. Wilmer Stach who played the part of Jim Jenkins, a 40 year old hired man, gave a fine performance, and Laura Schultz, who played opposite him as the housekeeper, did very well. Mildred Koehnke, the object of Reggie's affections, Irma Dettman, a snapper and Lucille Nehls, the village belle, took their parts admirably.

The scene of the play was laid in a farm living room and old fashioned furniture and a hanging lamp lent an air of realism to the room. Delegations from Oshkosh and Berlin drove down to attend the Wednesday night performance.

A birthday party was given Wednesday afternoon at the church by members of the Women's Union of St. John church who celebrated their birthday anniversaries in July. Hostesses were Mrs. A. Kreuer, Mrs. C. Freiberg, Mrs. E. Hauser, Mrs. A. Hoppe, and Mrs. A. Krouger. Sixty members of the Union were present. Games were played and prizes were won by Mrs. S. Krull, Mrs. H. Gotscher, Mrs. C. East, and Mrs. G. Schavet.

Mrs. F. J. Foreman's circle of the Ladies Aid society of Memorial Presbyterian church held a 1 o'clock luncheon Wednesday afternoon at the cottage of Mrs. W. H. Killen on Lake Winnebago. A business meeting was held and a social hour followed. Mrs. C. D. Thomas was assistant hostess. The next meeting will be August 18, at the cottage of Mrs. Glen Bell, with Mrs. Mary Hersel and Mrs. A. Marty as assistant hostesses.

A large crowd attended the ice cream social sponsored by the Ladies Aid society of St. Matthew church Wednesday afternoon and evening in the church basement. The committee in charge of the affair included Mrs. Herbert Schab, chairman; Mrs. A. Klinko, Mrs. W. Baehman, Mrs. Gust Schroeder, Mrs. G. Abendroth, and Mrs. E. Baehrenwald.

The Rev. Lawrence Olson will be the speaker this week at the Full Gospel tent meetings on Wisconsin avenue at Richmond. He will preach Thursday night on "The Great Physician," and on Friday he will talk on "From Beggar to Prince." There will be no meetings Saturday evening. The Rev. C. Goudie is the vocalist. A special children's meeting is planned for 7 o'clock Thursday night.

Mrs. John Lappen entertained Mrs. Frank Zischner's circle of the First Congregational church Thursday afternoon at her home. A 6 o'clock picnic supper will be served.

PARTIES

Mr. and Mrs. George Wittmann, route 3, Appleton, entertained several guests over the weekend with a series of parties given in honor of Mrs. Charles Stehling and Mrs. Harry Dunn of Los Angeles, Calif. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Blommer, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Stehling, Miss Patricia and Terrance Taugher of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Smithing of Shorewood, Mrs. Ida and Mrs. Clara Stehling of California and Mr. and Mrs. John Blommer of Wauwatosa.

Mrs. Bernice Olson, Miss Evelyn Van Roy, and Miss Pearl Johnson entertained at a shower Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Olson, Neenah, in honor of Miss Dorothy Kempfert, Appleton. Fourteen guests were present. Bridge provided the entertainment. Miss Kempfert was presented with a piece of furniture. She will be married August 6 to Joseph P. Kerrigan.

Alferi, and Mrs. Nick Dorn, at bridge by Mrs. Fred Stip and Mrs. W. H. Schultz, at dice by Mrs. T. P. Day and Mrs. John Stoffel, and at plumpack by Miss Mabel Hecker. Mrs. Henry Bogenschutz and Mrs. Walter Oskey were in charge.

The second of a series of card parties being sponsored by Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary church will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Schafkopf and bridge will be played. Mrs. John Murphy will be in charge.

New Name Is Adopted By Players

THE Citra Players is the new name of the newly organized theater group, which has been functioning under the name of the Fox River Valley Children's Theater, according to a decision reached at a meeting of the organization Wednesday night at Neenah park. The name, as suggested by Mrs. Frank Hammer, was formed by using the first two letters of the words, "city," "town," and "valley," indicating the location of activities of the group. Its membership consists of people from Appleton and surrounding towns of the Fox river valley.

The purpose of the Citra Players is to put on several plays of high caliber during the year, including three plays destined especially for a child audience, and two plays of adult interest. These will be alternated.

The play-reading committee, under the direction of Miss Evelyn Long, will begin its activities immediately, so that the selections of plays for the fall and winter will be simplified.

About 30 persons attended the picnic and meeting Wednesday night. A picnic supper was served and the business meeting followed. A social hour took place after the meeting. Mrs. Frank Hammer was in charge of the supper.

Mrs. I. J. Stafford, Neenah, won the golf prize at women's day at Butte des Morts Golf club Wednesday. Mrs. H. B. Buck, Neenah, was in charge of golf events. Several prizes were won by Mrs. Peter Thass and Mrs. Thomas Hill. Mrs. Ralph McGowan was bridge chairman.

A picnic at the Harvey Younger cottage at Waverly beach entertained the Rebekah Three Links club Wednesday. A picnic lunch was served and cards were played. Fourteen members were present. The next meeting will be in two weeks.

Shortage of feed and water in Montana has resulted in the shipment of many sheep into South Dakota.

State gasoline taxes in 1929 netted $21,045,414 on more than 13,500,000 gallons of motor fuel. The first gasoline tax was Oregon's of one cent a gallon, established in 1913. All the states have a gasoline tax now and three states have a six-cent tax—South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. It is "the most cheaply collected of all imposts" and "one of the most willingly paid of all taxes."

Total "waste" road expenditure had grown to $1,415,000,000 in 1929, of which automobile operators paid more than 50 per cent—$450,000,000—on gasoline taxes and the rest in license fees, permits and similar charges.

The beekeeping library of the Department of Agriculture has approximately 2,000 volumes, to say nothing of many pamphlets, devoted entirely to various phases of apiculture. The oldest one, printed in 1554, is "The Ordering of Bees" by John Lovett. About 115 journals are published throughout the world and the beekeeping library subscribes to 35 in 22 foreign countries.

Thirty-eight members of the dairy herd at the U. S. experiment station at Beltsville, Md., have died in the last four years and 18, or nearly half, of those deaths were due to foreign bodies swallowed with the feed. Twenty-two other animals were made seriously ill by swallowed foreign bodies. Foreign bodies most frequently found among the dead cows were pieces of wire and nails. Needles, splintered wood, knives, stones, bolts, money and watches are sometimes found in the digestive tracts of cattle. Cattle clear their food only superficially before swallowing it.

Find Type Of Studies Child Likes

BY ANGELO PATRI
"Willie is backward in history and grammar. His teacher thinks he ought to study during the vacation. He doesn't want to. What shall we do about it?"

That depends upon what Willie is doing this vacation. All education does not come out of books. A vast field lies beyond the school house door. I am not so sure that a cultivation of a part of this field might not bring results good enough to lay beside a passing mark in history or grammar.

Usually when we search for the reason of a child's failure we find a lack of interest in the subject. The child does not care about history or grammar and so he fails. Then we ask, WHY doesn't he like them? Maybe it is because he is not ready for those subjects yet. Children never make an even growth advancing all along the solid front of knowledge. Growth is ragged. One subject is high, another medium, another low, another gone for the term. Why? It would seem that history was as interesting as geography yet a child will do well in geography and fail in history. For some reason or other he is not ready to open his mind to history. How can we help him to open his mind? By sending him out to gather fresh experiences in the hope that they will open the way to new interests. You cannot be interested in things you know nothing about.

This boy, Willie, is backward in history. Instead of making him sit down each day with the same old text book, and telling him to "study," we might get results by taking him on a tour of the city, pointing out historical places, houses, tablets, and the like. Take him on a trip and trace the footsteps of a group of famous people, pilgrims, pioneers, explorers, warriors, who have left their marks on our history. Do the museums thoroughly. Say never a word about the history. Collect maps and picture cards and books. Find a simple easy book that will make some topic interesting—Tonty of the Iron Hand has interested many a boy in the early history of our country. Build up a background and stimulate interest. Then the child will take to his history with better grace. Grammar is a game, an intellectual pastime. Until the child has a good background of language experiences he will not get far with grammar. Enrich the background and the overflow can be used in learning the game of grammar.

Shall a backward child study in vacation time? It depends. If it means that he sit in the house for an hour holding his old texts and grumbling and mumbling over them, "NO." If it means that somebody is going to take the trouble to help the child gather experiences that will enrich his background and so stimulate his interest in the formal work for the next term in school, "YES."

All education is not closed with the covers of the books. A lot of it is on the street, in people's heads, in their actions, in work and in play. When a child has failed to get a passing mark in the classroom try another environment for a time and see what happens.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BARBARA. Jean's voice was weak but it lit a little gaily, caught itself in a breathless hopefulness, as it uttered the name.

To Sue, standing in the shadows of the door, it sounded very clearly. Suddenly she knew that he did love Barbara. Barbara with her wild and arts and golden hair that was like a cloud of yellow sunbeams blowing across a man's vision, and purple eyes that were mysterious and strange, although they had no mysterious mystery strange to conceal.

He loved Barbara. And Barbara had thrown him over because she loved somebody else. The way of the world. Sue was sorry for Jean with a sudden rush of sympathy. They were in a jam together. Neither of them had wanted it to happen. But it was up to her to help him out.

Jean peered into the dimness of the room as Sue came closer. He even laughed a little. "I must have been dreaming. I see to remember mentioning the name of a young lady who had the bad grace to say yes to a proposal I once made her, before she came to her senses and changed it to no. Did I call you Barbara?"

"Did you?" Sue asked, evading the answer. "I've done the same thing often." She didn't mention the accident, much as she wanted to apologize.

Jean did, though. "I'm no end sorry about this mess I got you into, Sue. It's my fault. I was running on high today. When you said you wanted speed, I thought I'd give you all you had asked for, and then some. I just got what I deserved. Are you sure you aren't hurt? I'm mighty glad of that. I would have blamed myself for being more than seven kinds of an idiot if you had been."

"Not a scratch," Sue answered. "Oh, no, it isn't. Don't start to worry about it. A conscience can send people to lunatic asylums and I imagine that you are getting yours out to be aired right now. You don't know anything. I've had seventeen dozen girls suggest fast drives. And I've speeded up for them, too. It's my funeral."

But when Sue finally slipped her key into the lock of the door, and realized that she was alone, such a swift sense of loneliness crept over her that it made her physically ill. She pulled the chain and the warm yellow light of the lamp by the biggest chair filled the corner of the room with a saffron glow. On the floor lay a crumpled rose that had fallen from Sarah's bouquet, which neither girl had noticed before. They had stepped on it, unwittingly, for the petals were brown and broken.

A handkerchief, a scrap of lace and linen, and Sarah had used to wipe some surplus rouge from her already glowing cheeks, lay on the dressing table, with its cherry smudge showing up in the light.

The room seemed filled with an atmosphere in which something had just happened. An empty feeling now, because whatever it was it was over. There had been anticipation in it a little while before. Now there was just the remembering.

The clock started to strike. Sue counted the stroke. Twelve of them. The hour when all Cinderellas came home from the ball with their dreams in their apron pockets.

She remembered that she hadn't read Jack's letter yet.

Dried apples, apricots, prunes, etc., should be soaked over night in cold water before cooking, so as to "plump" them and soften the dried tissues.

Raw ammonia will remove paint spots from a door. Be careful not to allow the ammonia to remain on too long, as it will eat the wood.

The safest way to melt chocolate is to put it into a small frying pan or saucepan over a low fire or in the oven. If it is to be mixed with a liquid, the best way is to melt it with a little of that liquid first and stir to a cream.

WHAT EVERY BEAUTY KIT MUST CARRY

BY ALICIA HART

The simplest way to buy your vacation beauty-makings is to get one of the weekend kits that the best firms put up all ready to use.

These are prepared to take care of summer's skin troubles, such as sun tan, freckles, the drying effects of wind and sun. Most of them include only creams, oils and unguents for the skin. Therefore you must also think of hair lotions and manicure equipment.

One of these beauty kits lasts from one week to a month, depending on how much you use of this or that. Some come in the most attractive vanity boxes, with mirrors in the lids so you can just sit there and take care of your face, hands, neck and arms.

Assemble Own Kit
However, if you have a special treatment worked out for yourself, make up a beauty kit for yourself. It is likely to be cheaper. It may lack the stimulation of running into a little vat of muscle oil which you never have used, or eye compacts which prove so useful. But it has the advantage of not omitting the things you use every day.

If you are making up your own kit, I suggest as a good average list of your requirements the following:

Cleansing oil, cleansing cream, skin food, massage cream, some anti-wrinkle cream or oil, muscle oil, skin stimulant, astringent, some talcum astringent for double chin, extract for pads to put over tired eyes, at least one corrective cream of the herb shantung lend themselves beautifully to this model.

Our Large Summer Fashion Book offers a wide choice for your summer wardrobe in darling styles for the children as well as the adults.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Price of book 10 cents.

variety, hand cream, anti-sunburn oils for all exposed portions of the body, complexion soap or your own brand of bland soap, and some kind of a skin tonic, or youthifier. For your hands, in addition to your manicure equipment, take some cuticle oil, for your nails are apt to get brittle from exposure to the elements.

For Your Hair
For your hair, you need your favorite tonic. Also take along ointment or oil, for scalp dryness is summer's meanest contribution to vacations. Also take shampoos and a staunch brush to keep your hair in glowing condition.

All of this may sound as if you might have to leave your clothes behind. Not at all. Buy small portions of everything, assemble them in a box and you will find they take up small space. It is space well utilized. For the more you take with you the more time you are likely to spend on beauty, so it is worth while to go well prepared.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "LEO"

If July 24th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from noon to 2 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:05 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Those who are ambitious of starting their own business, will find the planetary aspects in their favor on July 24th. The venture could be made with less than the usual risk. It is a fertile mental period for individuals of an inventive turn of mind, and they will do extraordinarily good work.

Children born on this July 24th will possess an abundance of vitality. They will have attractive individualities and will always be decided characters. Possessing a very strong love nature, they will be both ardent and sincere in their affections. They will be kind and warm-hearted.

Born on July 24th, you are moderate in all things, and well-balanced mentally. Although you do not proclaim your good qualities from the house tops, you appear to be a cut above your fellow-men. You are not a fiend, a crank, or a "fan." You never pose in any way, or do things simply to create an effect. You are a normal, red-blooded, decent-living human being, with live emotions, natural desires, and legitimate ambitions. You are not satisfied to see or know about one side of life, but are anxious for first-hand knowledge about sordid conditions as well as rozier hues of existence. You are brave enough to look real facts in the face, perhaps not at ways without blushing, but always without flinching. As a friend, you are tolerant, understanding and true. A complete absence of snobbery, a wide outlook and much sympathy, help to make you attractive to others. You never preach or take a "holier-than-thou" attitude. If a fellow-being needs help, and you can give it, you are ready to do so ungrudgingly as well as the worthy, from the usual standpoint of the world. As a study, history probably takes the lead, and you may delve into philosophy and religion. You revere the sanctity of the home, and you fight to maintain your high ideals.

CALLS KIWANIS REAL FACTOR IN CIVIC BUILDING

Past President of Club Talks to Joint Meeting at Neenah

Neenah—"America needs Kiwanis for four reasons—We build better men, We build better business, We build better communities, and We build better society." That was the answer given Wednesday evening by O. Sam Cummings of Dallas, Tex., past president of Kiwanis International to the question "Does America Need Kiwanis?" before more than 150 Kiwanians from Menasha, Appleton, Oshkosh, Ripon, Chilton, Seymour and Sheboygan gathered for an inter-club meeting following a 630 dinner at the Valley Inn.

"The first contact is acquaintance of men, the enduring friendship of men whose spirit is known to the community. We see life through the eyes of our fellow Kiwanians; Kiwanis has raised up leaders and revealed God given talents for community service. Men join our club have thus talent with them and by associating with service club members they use this hidden talent for the good of mankind."

"We build better business, and if we hold fast to Kiwanis principals we will come out on top in any undertaking we attempt. We dare not be untrue to the confidence of our fellow Kiwanians."

"We build better communities as the product of our idealism. Is a banded man-power for civic projects, we have pride in our home towns, we assist in every way to make them better, we join in bringing out the good things in the community and for the people who live there."

"We build better society. We seek the better things in life which go to make up real, upright people. Mr. Cummings was introduced by Norton Williams of Neenah past district governor who, with Paul Neumann, governor, and Fred Schmitt, of Appleton, spoke briefly on the convention to be held in August at Appleton."

Governor Neumann asked that the word "Convention" be dropped and replaced by "Kiwanis party or rally."

With so many countries of varied customs and habits in comparatively close range, the English radio fan has come to know the individual characteristics of each foreign broadcasting station.

The foreign broadcast band runs from 225 to 1375 meters. This band carries through the whole of Europe and Algeria in Africa.

Each foreign station has an individual signature that identifies it immediately. Fencamp, France, for instance, employs either a man or woman announcer who signs on with the call: "Allo! Ici Radio Normandie." The interval signal of the station is a high-pitched bell.

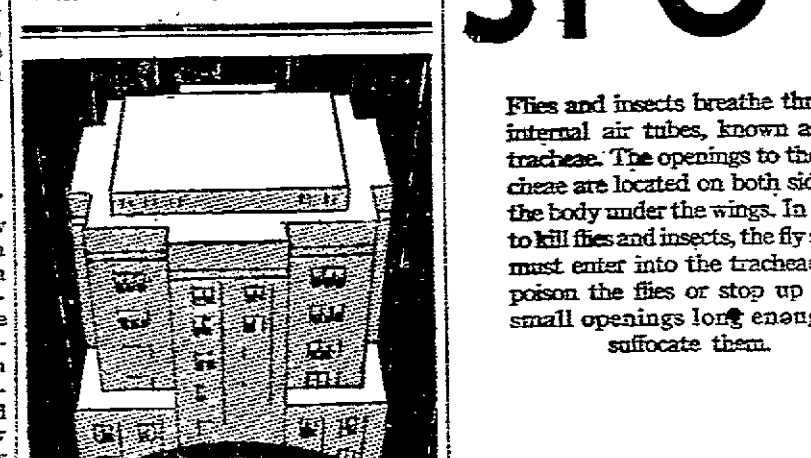

A Leipzig, on 238 meters, a man announcer calls: "Achtung! Hier sind die mitteleuropäischen sender Leipzig und Dresden." For an interval signal, the station uses the "tick-tick" of a metronome.

In Two Tongues
Dublin, Irish Free State, operating on 413 meters, employs a man announcer who must speak both English and Gaelic. The Irish signature is "Radio Ath Chath e seo." The English is, "Dublin calling." Lahti, Finland, on 1796 meters, also makes announcements in two languages—Finnish and Swedish.

Of course, to enjoy the announcements and talks from these foreign stations, one must be somewhat of a linguist.

From Madrid, Spain, comes "EATJ" (pronounced Ayah-hota see-ray-tay) Union Radio, Madrid. This call is preceded by the Siegfried aria played on a piano.

the TRACHEA is a FLY'S DEATH SPOT

Flies and insects breathe through internal air tubes, known as the tracheae. The openings to the tracheae are located on both sides of the body under the wings. In order to kill flies and insects, the fly spray must enter into the tracheae and poison the flies or stop up these small openings long enough to suffocate them.

INDOR is highly refined and scientifically designed to kill flies by both poisoning and suffocation. Powder from the pyrethrum flower is used as the fly poison in INDOR. When sprayed in a room, INDOR forms a fine mist which settles on flies as they fly through it . . . spreading over their bodies and entering into the tracheae, where it forms a toxic poison or stops up the openings to the tracheae, and suffocates them . . . a two-way fly killer.

INDOR is the cleanest, safest and most effective fly spray for use in the home and dairy. It is non-poisonous to humans, birds or animals and will not stain fabrics or taint foods.

INDOR is your best protection from the dangers and annoyances of flies, mosquitoes, roaches and moths.

Directions—Close all doors and windows of room . . . first spray where insects are most numerous . . . then spray upward towards ceiling, filling entire room with mist . . . keep room closed for 10 minutes . . . then sweep up and burn all dead flies and insects.

CHICAGO SURE OF FUNDS FOR WORLD'S FAIR

Adequate Financing Two Years Before Doors
Open Assured

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Chicago—(CPA)—A world's fair, assured of adequate financing two years before its doors open, is the unusual spectacle offered by Chicago in the midst of many civic financial worries.

This promise of a definiteness of progress exposition in 1933 is made by General Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain, who has just spent a month seeing to it that Chicago avoids the pitfalls into which previous world fairs have fallen.

Having made sure that the Dawes family would back a going show, the ambassador set off for England Tuesday, to get in on the play to solve Germany's fiscal troubles. He left his brother Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, in a position to push the enterprise without financial worry.

The whole project, designed on a scale to surpass the Columbian exposition of 1893, which amazed the world, is forging ahead into the advanced stage. Four of the fair buildings already are constructed, and a fifth is under way. Pledges have been received from a number of the country's leading industries to participate on a large scale, and General Motors company has just announced a $1,000,000 appropriation to be expended on a building and exhibits.

Many Other Features
Besides, among the most interesting features of the exposition are the permanent institutions along Chicago's lake front, including the new $10,000,000 Rosenwald museum of science and industry, nearing the stage where exhibits will be installed.

"Of the $10,000,000 bonds of the century of progress," said General Dawes, "$6,555,000 have been sold without individual or corporation guarantees. The remaining $3,445,000 are secured by individual and corporation guarantees. The said guarantees amount in the aggregate to $5,571,000 in addition to the lien on gate receipts. Of these I have sold on this trip something over $1,000,000 leaving about $2,400,000 of guaranteed bonds to be sold as needed during the latter part of next year."

General Dawes pointed out that Chicago already has contributed nearly double the amount given for the 1893 exposition.

But while able to finance a fair, the city still finds itself struggling with municipal finances in a tangle that will take the state legislature to unravel. By keeping the approaching exposition under strictly private management, the pitfalls of politics have been avoided. Every effort is being expended to steer around the type of difficulty that partially spoiled the sesqui-centennial exposition in Philadelphia a few years back.

LEGISLATORS LIABLE TO QUASI-GARNISHMENT

Madison—(P)—The attorney general has ruled that members of the legislature are liable to the quasi-garnishment statute at all times except during either regular or special sessions of the legislature, and for 15 days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session in an opinion to Theodore Dammann, secretary of State.

Attorney General John Reynolds, who wrote the opinion, says it was based on the constitutional provision

ASK REVERSAL IN RADIO DECISION

Reynolds Hits Ruling Denying State Merger of Two Stations

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Attorney General John W. Reynolds of Wisconsin has asked the District of Columbia court of appeals to reverse the decision of the federal radio commission denying the state of Wisconsin's application for a merger of its two radio stations.

The commission refused to permit the 750-watt University of Wisconsin station, WEA at Madison, and the 2000-watt Department of Agriculture and Markets station, WLSE at Stevens Point, to consolidate into a five kilowatt station to serve the whole state.

Reynolds' notice of appeal said the commission erred on four counts: In holding that the existing stations had not made full use of their facilities; in holding that each of the existing stations can give good service to a substantial part of the state; in holding that to grant the merger would further increase the radio facilities in a zone already over quota; and in holding that public interest, convenience, and necessity would not be served by consolidating the stations.

which provides that members of the legislature shall not "be subject to any civil process during the session of the legislature, nor for 15 days next before the commencement, and after the termination of each session."

F. M. Wylie, deputy attorney general, has informed Giles V. Megan, Oconto county district attorney, that in case of a distressing condition arising by reason of a city being without funds or credit to support the poor, the county board might consider the adoption of the county poor system.

Certain fees due a county judge for criminal and insane commitments have been explained to F. W. Horns, Forest county district attorney, in an opinion by J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general.

Bering sea. On the Lindbergh course from Nome to Kragmusk island, off the Kamchatka peninsula, the percentage of days when winds reach gale force is less than for the more southerly portions of the Bering sea.

Nearing the island, however, the percentage for August is as high as in any portion of the waters.

The erratic summer storms which lash the region begin in late August. As the north's brief summer wanes they increase in number, severity and duration.

To the southward, the tropical typhoon season finds its height in August. Often hitting Japan, these storms, as traced by the officials, touch or skirt the volcanic Kuril chain to the north then dissipate and veer north and eastward to the sea.

Also, sudden storms spring out over the Kuril island peaks, some of which are active volcanoes. Throughout the spring and summer they are often shrouded in heavy, low-hanging fog. Some portions are foggy as much as half the time the year round.

Throughout the route, weather forecast stations are comparatively scanty. There is a gap without any as wide as the north Atlantic between Nemuro, in northern Japan, one of the stops, and Dutch Harbor, most easterly of the Aleutian islands.

Weather bureaus of Japan and the United States gather reports from ships that were in the area, often months later, from which to compile charts.

Soviet Russia, however, has some stations in the Arctic ocean and along the Siberian shore, mostly north of the course Lindbergh has chosen. Mr. Mitchell explained that in the absence of diplomatic relations the Russian station observations have not been available to the United States.

Mickey Walker Battles Sharkey To Draw In 15 Rounds

32,000 WATCH TINY MAN SLAM BOSTON SAILOR

Rumson Battler Stages Aggressive Fight to Win Seven Rounds

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP)—The official decision says Jack Sharkey didn't lose, but on the hearted little Mickey Walker fight today shows all the acclaim and golden promises that go to a newcomer scaling the heavyweights heights.

In the very heart of the heavy-weight picture is the rugged, grinning, battle-scarred face of the chunky fellow from Rumson, N. J., welterweight and middleweight titleholder in his time, now at least as good as Sharkey because two learned judges and a referee compromised on a draw after fifteen rounds of hurly-burly battle in Ebbets field last night.

Certainly Mickey turned in the most surprising upset of many a fist-fight season as he harassed the big sailorman through the rough and tumble battle that revealed Sharkey in another of his disappointing struggles and gave a crowd of 32,000 a chance to boo and exult in his discomfiture.

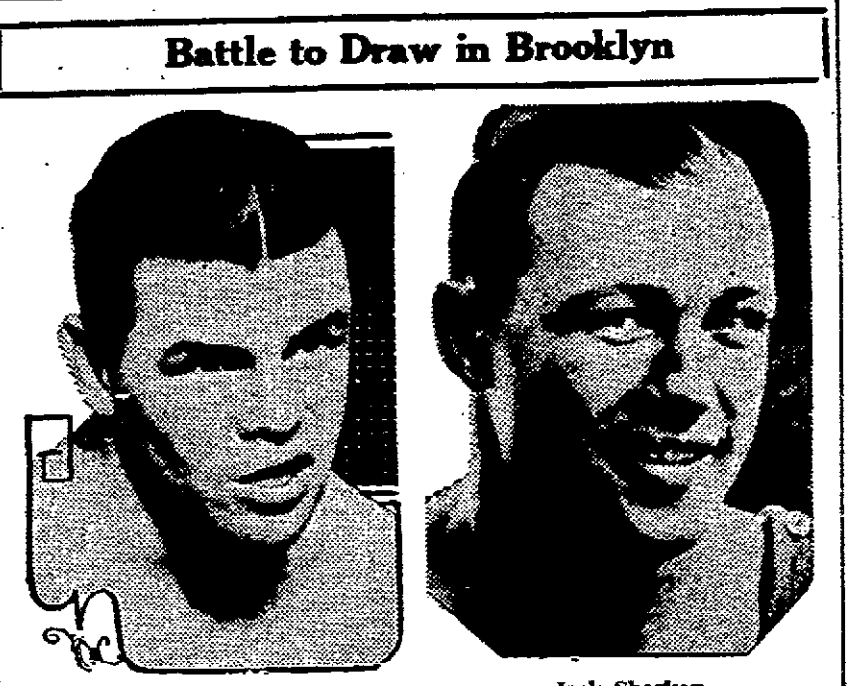

There was no questioning whom the crowd that almost filled the National league ball yard thought had won but the arbiters arrived at the compromise decision by every possible route left open to them.

Referee Arthur Donovan, for instance, thought the bulldog, Sharkey, the eternal aggressor of the little man who gave Sharkey an advantage of 29 pounds, inches in height and reach, entitled Mickey to the decision. Judge George Kelly voted Sharkey the award apparently on the basis of his right hand punching that gashed Walker's left eyelid in the fifth round and opened wide in the closing seconds of the fight. Charles F. Madden, chose the middle course and called it a draw while the Associated Press score sheet counted up the same way, with seven rounds for Walker, seven for Sharkey and one even.

Walker Gets Honors
But regardless of the futility of the decision, as futile as the battling itself, honors for the evening went into the lap of Walker, the 1931 pugilist who dared tackle a Sharkey weighing 195, outboxed and out-punched him for ten rounds, and slipped back only when the embattled sailor rallied fiercely to try and save the day in the last four rounds.

Sharkey found the range then with the long right hand punches he had been tossing in the preliminary fight all evening, the short clothing smashes in close that opened wide the gash in Mickey's left eyelid. Blood poured down Walker's cheek, smeared his features into a red, grinning false face, and gave the erratic Sharkey the incentive to come on and tie the fight.

Sharkey plainly showed the effects of his layoff of over a year since he lost his chance to win the heavyweight title by routing Max Schmelling in the fourth round two years ago. He boxed slowly, cautiously, and looked ridiculous at times valiantly holding on to the little fellow who hardly came up to his chin.

GALLETT BEING SUED BY MILWAUKEE FIRM

Teams Battle Eleven Long Innings — Bruins Take Win by 5 to 4 Score

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Francis S. Gallett, professional at Blue Mound Golf club here, was named defendant in a suit for $10,000 damages by the Water-Wisconsin company, owners of a prominent downtown building in which Gallett maintained a golf school and miniature course last winter.

The complaint charges he started the business Dec. 15, 1929, and abandoned it unconsciously April 15, 1931, leaving the building owners "holding the bag" for about $3,000 worth of equipment loss of rent and other deficits.

The contract called for the "pro" to give the company 40 per cent of the gross receipts, anticipated in the lease to be about $5,250 for the first 21 months. In fact, according to the plaintiff, receipts for the entire period of operation were slightly over $950.

SAINTS, MILLERS SETTLE DOWN FOR FURIOUS SERIES

Minneapolis in Third Place and Six Games Behind Old St. Paul Rivals
CHICAGO (AP)—Minneapolis and St. Paul fans today sat down to their best baseball dish of the season—a series between the Saints and Millers with the leadership of the American association's "Pisces of Resistance."

The meeting of the Twin City rivals was not the only important item on the bill. Kansas City, one game back of Minneapolis and Milwaukee, a fraction of a game behind the Blues, were down to open a series, while Indianapolis, tied with Louisville at the standing, opens with Louisville at Indianapolis tomorrow. Toledo and Columbus will stage a cellar battle starting tomorrow.

With the exception of first place, the battle for positions is so close that almost any team outside of Toledo, can jump as high as two notches by winning a single game. There was only six and one-half games between Louisville and Toledo today, and the Mud Hens were the one-half game behind Columbus, leaving the middle six clubs jammed together.

St. Louis Cards Continue Drive For League Pennant

BY JOHN R. FOSTER
Copyright 1931 Cons. Press
New York (CFA)—St. Louis has stolen a march in the National league which might win the championship for the Cardinals again, if this were shortly after the first of September.

At this time last year the Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Brooklyn and Chicago teams were higher in the race than they are to day. Perhaps not much higher in position as they fought for the finish, because position changes rapidly when teams are tightly interwoven, but they were higher in percentage. Three teams in the National league are better off in percentage now than they were a year ago. They are St. Louis, New York and Boston.

Brooklyn has been coming on rapidly and if the team has staying power, the middle of August may see it aligned with the three who are now an improved trio. If that happens the race will be split, with St. Louis, Chicago, New York and Brooklyn fighting for the lead.

MANLEY WINS FIGHT WITH MAX ROSENBLUM

Denver, Colo. (AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion has lost his second non-title fight with George Manley, 177-pound Denver boxer.

Duplicating his performance in an engagement last spring, Manley pounded the champion down to a 10-round decision here last night. Rosenbloom, who weighed 176, started strongly and for the first three rounds had Manley under control. When he could have crashed the Denver boy to the mat with hard smashes, however, Rosenbloom was content to cuff him lightly. The Denver boy rocked Maxie in the fifth with a terrific right and chased him around the ring hammering all the way. Maxie was wavering at the bell.

The next two rounds Rosenbloom punished Manley, but from there on Manley strengthened. He weakened Rosenbloom with a hard body attack. In the eighth Manley opened a cut on Rosenbloom's eyebrow. The tenth round was a toe to toe slug-ging affair.

DOROTHY PAGE TO MEET MRS. BOYCE

State Title Holder Defeats Miss Sue Nash in Wednesday Match

Janesville (AP)—Wisconsin's premier woman golfer, Miss Dorothy Page, Maple Bluff Country club, Madison, was prepared today to sell through all opposition to retain her state title.

Playing over the Janesville country club course, in the state tournament, she meets Mrs. J. R. Boyce, Nakoma club, Madison, Miss Page's course record breaking 81 in the qualifying round, her sub-par play in the nine holes of her match with Miss Sue Nash, Wisconsin Rapids, in the first round, and her 13th total of only 58 strokes yesterday are counted sufficient insurance that she will win over the capital city woman, who entered the second round by reason of the default of Mrs. E. J. B. Schubring, Maple Bluff.

Miss Jane Cannon, Blue Mound, Milwaukee, opposes Mrs. William Findler, Michigawake, Milwaukee, and is also expected to win. She and Miss Page are expected to battle tomorrow for the honor of opposing Mrs. G. E. Cleophas, Beloit, regarded as a certain lower bracket semifinalist.

Mrs. Cleophas, several times runner-up in state tournaments, is expected to win today over Mrs. Harold Walker, Ozaukee, Milwaukee, and over the winner of today's match between Mildred Halvorsen, Stoughton, and Mierle Nickles, Nakoma, Madison.

The junior championship will be settled today, Marion Callahan, Nakoma, meeting Goldie Bateson, Westmore, West Abies, Miss Callahan defeated Arlene Smith, Beloit, 5 and 4, yesterday, and Miss Bateson entered the finals over Katherine Halvorsen, Stoughton, 3 and 7.

Miss Cannon, with drives of 203, 208 and 226 yards, yesterday won the class A driving contest. She was followed by Mrs. F. M. Gallett, La Crosse, who got out drives of 162, 163 and 177 yards. Class B awards went to Janet Jones, of Janesville, with drives of 166, 172 and 174 yards.

Miss Bateson took the junior driving honors.

Establishing a five run lead in the initial inning, the strong Tuttle Press softball team Wednesday afternoon took the Appleton Chair Co. aggregation into tow and handed them a 12 to 7 trimming.

The Pressmen ran wild in the first two innings scoring eight runs. They played rather listless baseball after that and were held scoreless in the fifth, sixth and seventh frames. The Chairs rallied in the sixth and drove in three runs, but the lead was too great to overcome.

Strutz pitched for the Tuttle Press crew and Krabe supported him behind the plate. A Sell did the hurrying for the Chairs and Burmeister caught.

Brooklyn—Jack Sharkey, Boston, and Mickey Walker, Rumson, N. J., drew (16); Arthur De Kuh, New York, outpointed Frankie Cawley, Pittsburg, Pa., (5); Walter Cobb, Baltimore, outpointed Babe Hunt, Oklahoma City (5).

Leiperville, Pa. — Joe Anderson, Covington, Conn., outpointed cowboy Eddie Anderson, Texas (10); Pat Hayworth, Kansas City, knocked out Martin Reilly, New York (1).

Golf Escapes Depression; Everybody Is Playing It

Copyright 1931, Cons. Press
CHICAGO (CFA)—Golf, at least daily fee golf courses where the butcher, baker, candle stick maker and milliner can sling a bag of clubs over their shoulders and follow the ball through the rough, appears to have escaped the current business depression. According to the latest report from Messrs. Herbert and Joe Graffis of golfdom, who keep account of such matters, there were eighty-six new daily fee courses opened for play in twenty-three states between June 1 and July 10.

That is a healthy commentary on the hold the game has on people untroubled or unwilling to belong to private clubs. It would be an unduly fee and municipal courses would be the first to feel the pinch of hard times. But such does not appear to be the case and in most of our golfing centers the public courses are well crowded, particularly over weekends. The professional at one of Chicago's larger daily fee courses reports that business is equal to that of last year and with no reduction in greens fees.

There now are 991 municipal and Little action that rose above the normal.

Three times, in the fifth, eighth and fifteenth rounds, Sharkey was warned either for low blows or butting. The big crowd that paid $210,000 to see the show bowed Sharkey roundly as referee Donovan called attention to the fouls.

The verdict, another severe blow to his fading Sharkey prestige, may mean a return bout between the pair or it may lift Walker to such prominence that he will get the title shot at Schmelling next June.

FORDS TRIM WIRES IN FAST GAME, 10-4

Lautenschlager Hurls Excellent Ball to Steer Brandt Nine to Win

The Brandt Fords, playing in the National Softball league competition last night walloped the Appleton Wire Works nine by a score of 10 to 4 in a fast and furious contest. The Fords did all their scoring in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings, getting two in the fifth, three in the sixth and five in the seventh to make it a total of 10.

The Wires scored first in the fourth, and rallied in the ninth to bring in three runs for a four total. Lautenschlager pitched an excellent game of ball for the Brandt aggregation, and was supported behind the plate by Hartzheim.

DeYoung and Demand took turns at hurrying for the Wires, and Weiland stood behind the pan.

Calling the Strikes

New York (CFA)—Sheriff Blake, who has finally let the Cubs, to be taken on by the Phillies, may not be the champion hard luck pitcher of the United States, but he will make a good entrant for that distinction. His name in front is J. Fred. He is called Sheriff because he looks like a county's right hand man and acts like one.

Blake is a pitcher who has all the physical requisites needed for skill. Every Chicago manager has extolled him. His best year in Chicago was in 1928, when he won 17 games and lost eleven. He can speed the ball, curve the ball and deceive the batter. However, if there is a bad break in a ball game he can draw it. If he could cash in on lottery tickets as he does on old hard luck he would be a millionaire.

TEN APPLETON GOLFERS ENTER N. E. TOURNEY

Qualifying Rounds Opened Thursday Morning on Green Bay Club Course

TEN Appleton golfers, who have been showing up well out at Butte des Morts and Riverview Country clubs during the past season were expected to take the field in the qualifying round of the annual championship matches of the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association at the Oneida Golf and Riding club, Green Bay, Thursday morning. The tournament will continue through Saturday.

Among the Appleton players, who are taking part in the tourney are: Ralph McGowan, Kenneth Dickinson, Gordon Derber, Dan Courtney, Charles, Tom and James McKenny, Dan Steinberg, Jr., and August Brandt. Butte des Morts, and Lyle Spencer, President's cup winner of Riverview Country club.

Following the qualifying rounds, pairings will be drawn for match play to begin Friday morning in all flights. Eighteen holes will be played in the morning and the survivors will battle again in the afternoon over the same route. Semi-finals in all flights will be staged Saturday morning and the final Saturday afternoon.

Plan Features

In addition to the regular matches several other features are being planned. There will be a medal play handicap meet, a blind bogey and other events of a consolation prize nature for golfers who lose in the flight matches. Several prizes are to be awarded in each of these events.

Ken Dickinson is considered one of leading contenders in the tournament. The former state amateur champion is bent on stealing B. C. Brazee's crown. Brazee won the crown here at Butte des Morts club last year by defeating "Jimmie" Simpson a fellow player from Wisconsin Rapids after a thrilling battle.

Clubs of the association expected to enter players include Neenah Country club, Sheboygan Country club, Wausau Country club, Muskegon Country club, Green Lake, River-side Country club, Menominee, Bulls Eye Country club, Wisconsin Rapids, Butte des Morts club, Appleton, Oconto Country club, Fond du Lac Town and Country club, Oneida Golf and Riding club, Riverview Country club, Appleton, Oshkosh Country club, Lakeside Country club, Manitowish, Fox Lake Country club, Elk Lake, Quin-Quoc Golf club, Fox-hart Lake, and Shawano Country club, Shawano.

FRENCH NETMEN FACE NEW BRITISH WARRIORS

Paris —(P)— France's tennis warriors defend the Davis cup tomorrow against a new team of challengers. The British team which reached the challenge round by upsetting the German finalists, the United States, is to open its series against a weakened and somewhat doubtful set of French defenders at Antwerp.

France is the favorite to hold the historic trophy despite the series of misfortunes which have weakened the ranks of the French aces. Illness has made Rene Lacoste a non-playing captain of the French team this year instead of one of the strongest of the defenders. Henri Cochet also has been ill while Jean Borotra has been complaining recently that he is not in his best form.

Expert observers fail to find enough weakness in the French team to make it a probable victim of the Englishmen. Despite his complaints, Borotra appears to be playing well while Cochet is recovering rapidly from the slump that brought him elimination from the Wimbledon championships by Nigel Sargant and says he is satisfied with his play.

The English team of H. W. "Bunny" Austin, Fred Perry and George F. Hughes, undoubtedly is strong, but the consensus is that it was the superior experience of this trio rather than their great skill that enabled them to conquer the Americans in the interzone final. Cochet and Borotra, the mainstays of the French team, have more than enough experience to serve them.

WATCH WALT HAGEN, IS MANERO WARNING

St. Paul —(P)— Tony Manero believes Walter Hagen will be the entry that has to be watched in the St. Paul open tournament. Manero finished second to Harry Cooper, the winner in the St. Paul tournament last year, and thinks he will be near the top when the scores are posted at the finish.

Other pros entered in the event are of the same opinion of Manero, who went on to say, "Hagen is at his old tricks again, and you all know what that means. He has been going for the back of the cups, and Hagen course is just about cut out for him."

Uncle Robby, Tris Speaker Do A Little Reminiscing

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press

CHICAGO—(CPA)— Uncle Willie Robinson did not notice Tris Speaker for a moment or two, when the old gray eagle sat down on the Brooklyn Robins' bench before a game at Wrigley field. Then he spied Speaker and with a chortle, exclaimed: "My word there is an outfielder!"

"Hey you, Herman and Fredricks and O'Doul! Come over here. Take a look at an outfielder what was an outfielder. Why my golly he was playing ball when I was."

"Ask him about them back grounds. All I hear from you guys is back grounds. You can't hit because of them back grounds. Say you guys don't know anything about when back grounds were rainbows. Red, white and blue whiskey signs on the fences and sometimes bottles along the edge of the field. Signs all over the fences and popping; you right in the eye."

"He could hit against them signs. Colors didn't bother him. But you guys! A few white shirts and you start blaming the background. Back grounds, honey. This guy was a batter."

Uncle Will is in a jubilant mood. Any time he is giving his outfielders who can pound the ball harder than any bunch in the business, the berries you can bet that Uncle Will is happy.

And he has reason to be. The Robins handicapped by a woeful start have picked up speed and advanced to second place in the National league race, after a successful start against St. Louis and Chicago on the present western tour.

Must Trim Robins

"The Robins are the club that must be beaten to win the National league pennant," is the opinion expressed by Speaker who has studied them all this season. Lefty O'Doul is hitting as he can hit when in stride and his bat has helped lift the Dodgers out of the mire.

"Old Lefty is bouncing that apple," said Uncle Will. "but a man can hit any time he gets out in front of that ball. Gotta get in front of the ball and old Lefty is out there now."

Robby is getting some great relief pitching from the ancient partner of baseball, John Floss Quinn, who admits forty-six years. Old John gave one of the finest exhibitions of relief pitching the season has produced in a game against Chicago. Dazz Vance put the tying run on second in the ninth and Babe Herman's error let the man score.

Then old John went to work. With the bases filled, he spotted his fielders to the inch and then pitched. Pitching accurately to each batter he made two of the Cubs' sluggers bounce to shortstop. Gordon Slade, who was playing far in on the grass and both times runners were forced at the plate. Quinn's arm may no longer stand the strain of nine innings but in a tight spot there is no better man for the job than old John.

He uses his head and can spot the ball about where he wants it.

The Robins expect to gain more ground when they come up with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh and then catch up with the St. Louis Cardinals after they return home. Maybe Uncle Will's fiftieth year in baseball will be a pennant year. His players think so and they are fighting for every advantage.

MENS CLUB TAKES LEAD IN SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—First place in the city softball league was definitely clinched by the Men's club Wednesday evening. Coming from behind, the club pounded Baby out of the box in the seventh inning to win by a 10-3 score from the Press-Republican. Much's pitching, Boese's fielding and Urban's home run were too much of a handicap for the Press team.

The Plywood-Borden team, who had hoped to stay in first place, were given a 12 to 6 trouncing by the Hutton squad. Bessett for Hutton played a good game at short, besides cleaning up the bases with a healthy swat. Both Wells and Ebert were hit hard, but Plywood-Borden errors lost the game.

The Men's club is in first place, Press-Republican and the Plywood-Bordens are tied for second, Huttons are in third place.

BEGIN THRESHING IN FREMONT TERRITORY

Frank Looker and Crew of Men Working in Town of Wolf River

Special to Post-Crescent
Fremont—Frank Looker with a crew of men has commenced the annual threshing season in Fremont and vicinity, about two weeks early this year because of the recent hot weather. His machine and crew of men are engaged in the town of Wolf River this week. Scores of farmers will be visited and thousands of bushels of grain, with a preponderance of oats, will be threshed. The grain crop here is light due to the excessive heat during the past three weeks which ripened the grain before it attained full growth. Corn has progressed rapidly during the last three weeks but the crop will be only fair unless rain is forthcoming. There were showers in many parts of the state Tuesday but Fremont received only a light sprinkle of rain.

Many tennis enthusiasts from Weyauwega as well as local players frequent the hard-surfaced regulation tennis court on the Greiner corner, South Main and Water-sts., which has become the playground of the village and is being used almost continuously.

Fish Die At Alarming Rate In Famous Waupaca-Co Lake

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Royalton—The casualties of fish life at White Lake, which lies in the center of this township, have reached alarming proportions, and it is feared the fish will become extinct in that body of water, which has been the sportsman's delight from the days when dusky red skins first sought its banks as the place incarnate of their "happy hunting grounds."

With the first severe heat wave this summer the fish began to die, and float to the surface at the shores. This has continued until the problem of the removal and disposal of the dead odorous bodies is quite an expense to the town which is paying to have them removed and buried.

White Lake is one of the few bodies of water that has furnished a variety of good fishing without having been restocked.

The wholesale death of fish may be caused by the fact that the lake has not been restocked as much by the springs which feed it, because the marsh lands from which the springs draw part of their moisture have been so dry. Much of the timber and wild growth in the marshes which formerly held moisture have been cleared away, marsh fires have burned deep, and the storage of rain and snow has cut down the moisture content of the marsh.

The fish sought the shallow waters to feed in, and without an under current of cool water, the shallow water was so hot that the fish were literally cooked.

The lake will be restocked as soon as it is put in a proper condition to receive the young fish.

In previous days White Lake was one of the outstanding beauty spots of Waupaca-co, with a bathing beach that was unsurpassable.

Later a project was launched to flood the White Lake marsh to raise cranberries. This scheme was unsuccessful and was abandoned but not before the beautiful lake had deteriorated. Wild grasses grew on the bathing beach and the hard white sand became covered with muck.

A few years ago companies were organized for the purpose of reclaiming the lake to its former beauty. Much work was done and many substantial cottages were built on its shores. Large numbers of Milwaukee and Appleton persons own places there.

Several fountains were made in the lake to freshen the water and keep it from freezing over in the winter.

There has always been excellent fishing in the lake and pickeral weighing as much as 18 pounds have frequently been caught.

White Lake was the favorite hunting grounds of the Menominee Indians, long before the white man settled here.

After a hunting exploration at White Lake and surrounding forests the Indians took the rich spoils of the chase in their light canoes down the Wolf river.

In the center of White Lake is an island of about seven acres, on which the Indians planted corn. This is supposed to have been the first land cultivated in Waupaca-co.

Their chief's name was Weyauwega (meaning "these are rest") and it was for him that the village of Weyauwega was named.

Old chief Weyauwega's skull now reposes in the archives of Smithsonian Institute at Washington D. C.

White Lake was made the county playground, by the early white pioneers and many big county picnics and assemblies were held there.

MILK FLOW DROPS 50 PER CENT IN BROWN-CO AREA

Shortage of Pastures Felt Keenly in Past Two Weeks by Farmers

BY W. F. WINSEY

Inquiries made at a number of cheese factories in the drouth territory of Brown-co this week showed that milk has fallen off 50 per cent in the past two weeks, due to a shortage of pastures. Inquiries addressed to farmers on the same day showed that the price of milk, despite the falling off is from 70 cents per hundred pounds net to 85 cents.

As the pastures have entirely disappeared and grass hoppers are destroying grain, quite a large fraction of the farmers are considering a reduction in the size of their herds. It appears generally that farmers have pinned their last hope of getting home-grown dairy feed this year to their corn crops. Light all season on account of the drouth that has continued through two years, a large part of their grain now lies on the ground as a result of the destructive work of grasshoppers. Most of the oats in some sections was cut to save the straw. While here and there in the drouth area there are good fields of early oats and barley the average of either crop will not be more than 25 per cent of normal. The hay crop was almost as light as is the grain crop. For the most part corn is twisted, shriveled and yellow. In several of the townships suffering the most nothing was seen of the Sunday rains, heavy elsewhere, but a light sprinkle.

Typical reasons for the proposed sale of cows are, large herds, no pasture, only a small quantity of hay, grain very light, and no money to buy feed.

Grain being threshed in one of the drouth townships is yielding from 10 bushels to 30 bushels in rare cases.

VEGETABLES FOUND IN BAD CONDITION

Dry Period in Sections of Outagamie and Brown-co Shows Results

BY W. F. WINSEY

Except as a light sprinkle no rain fell Sunday in the towns of Rock-land and Wrightstown, Brown-co, nor in the town of Buchanan, Outagamie-co. In these towns, therefore, corn, potatoes and other vegetables, are in a worse condition than last week. There is no pasture left in these townships and to make up for the lack of this kind of feed farmers are feeding their cows in the stables and yards. As if expecting a repetition of last summer's drouth, a few forehanded farmers planted emergency crops to cut and throw over the fence into the yards and lanes to their cattle or to feed in their stables, and believe it or not a few of them planted that weed for pasture that is now four feet tall and growing luxuriantly along the highways despite the drouth. Those latter farmers have had all the sweet clover pasture their cattle need.

Some circumspect farmers before too late planted as emergency hay crops, soybean, Sudan grass, or Calf-corn to throw over the fence as fodder in case of need. Most of these emergency crops are doing well and will soon be ready for fall feed.

A large number of farmers turned down timothy a few years ago and learned how to raise alfalfa. These farmers have their mows stuffed from 10 to 40 tons of good alfalfa hay and are looking toward the seed and cutting while the timothy growers were through about three weeks ago with the timothy fields for this season after harvesting about one-half ton to the acre.

Souvenir Hunters Flock To Ma Kennedy's Cottage

Hermosa Beach, Calif.—(CPA)—Although Ma Kennedy slapped a big for sale sign up in the front yard, hopped into her car and drove away from here bright and early Monday morning, the dwelling known as honeymoon cottage and heartbreak house was by no means deserted for the remainder of the day. Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Evangelist Almer Sample McPherson, said she was bound eventually for Catalina Island. The Rev. Guy Edward What-A-Man Hudson, bridegroom of a few brief weeks, is in seclusion pending a divorce suit which Mrs. L. Margaret Newton-Hudson who says she is still his wife, intends to file.

But honeymoon cottage, locked up and vacant, is nevertheless the centre of attraction for scores of souvenir hunters. There used to be a perfectly good clothes line in the rear yard. In various lengths it now adorns the homes of various earnest collectors. Slips have been nipped from the geranium beds. Leaves have been garnered from the two day fig trees. Chops of wood, pebbles, and splinters from the towering ship's mast in the side yard have not eluded the eyes of memento connoisseurs.

Somebody discovered a small plot of ground which looked as though what-a-man had intended to plant a garden when formal matrimonial ties untied his latest marriage. A man in a big car scooped several handfuls of the new earth and bore it away in a fold of newspaper. Other visitors pencilled their initials on the front door which bore a neat card asking that important mail be forwarded to a Los Angeles address. The card was signed significantly "M. A. Kennedy."

All windows and doors of the modest white-gray cottage were securely fastened. But somehow a visitor observed through a bulge in a drawn curtain one of Ma Kennedy's stockings upon a shelf. With infinite patience and a bit of wire the visitor contrived to hook the stocking through a crack beneath the window and to carry it off in triumph. Exactly why, probably the visitor herself did not know.

Men sightseers, by the way, are as numerous as women.

Honeymoon cottage, perched high on its hill a mile back from the seashore, was left outwardly and inwardly in spick and span condition. The steep steps to the porch which affords a magnificent view of the Pacific and of the surrounding country were swept clean, the easy chair at the top of the steps was dusted and the glamorously rose colored net curtains at the front windows were drawn.

Ma Kennedy wore a pink and black flowered silk gown when she drove smartly toward Los Angeles. On her head was a jaunty straw hat with upturned brim and a jaunty smile wreathed her lips. She is, as she has herself said, not one to dwell in the shadows.

FISH HATCHERIES CLOSE THIS WEEK

Institutions at Sparta, Wis- consin Rapids Hit by New Programs

Madison—(P)—Fish hatcheries at Sparta and Wisconsin Rapids will probably be closed at the end of the week, the conservation commission announced here.

The hatcheries are among those which were ordered closed by the commission at a special meeting at Fond du Lac two weeks ago because of lack of funds. Closing of the hatcheries awaited distribution of fish they contained.

"Activities have been considerably reduced at all of the hatcheries, and particularly at those hatcheries which have been used as parks, thus increasing the expense of maintenance," the commission said. "Two men have been laid off at the Madison hatchery which has been closed because of insufficient funds to maintain the area as a park and keep up adequate sanitary facilities. The same will be done at Bayfield."

"Similar reductions are being carried on in the state parks. At Devil's Lake State Park, the force has been cut to three men, and at Copper Falls state park, the newest of the state parks, there is no resident caretaker."

Eleven wardens were released from the service temporarily. They are John Long, McLen; H. O. Hougren, Loretta, E. Bosworth, Merrill; Al Powell, Bayfield; Valentine Raeth, Milwaukee; Louis Jeske, Apleton; Frank Randall, Waupaca; Ralph Tourtellott, Wabeno; Harold Apel, Menominee; E. P. Lanning, Black River Falls, and F. A. Dockham, Baraboo. Other wardens are taking enforced vacations without pay.

MOON OF DELIGHT

by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Seeing the stranger Gabreau, enter the hold of the Dolores, Juanita Basara hides in a chest that captures his thieving eye. When she revives she is in a New Orleans gambling place, questioned by Jason Divitt, the proprietor, to whom she tells her strange story. He believes her to be an Argentine girl who has run away—perhaps to avoid an unwelcome marriage, but plans to keep her captive so that her story might not involve him in an unpleasant explanation about the stolen chests. Only the dwarf, Gabreau, seems her friend, as Divitt, Umberto and Conchita, question her. But Divitt, who with Molly his wife, run the place, admits that they—like herself—are outside the law. "You protect us. We protect you," he says.

Chapter 3
"UNCONVENTIONAL MOLLY" GABREAU could not sleep. In the short bed he had never outgrown, he muttered and tumbled. One end of the room had been curtained off for Gabreau. "She is a queen," he whispered to Conchita, who came over to make the mosquito bar right about him, "who run away from revolution."

"They do not have a queen in Argentine," said Conchita. "I'm glad you feed her and give her yo' night gown."

"She do not wear him. She let him drop on flo—and she do not eat the food."

"Madre de Dios, her eyes!" groaned Gabreau. "Did you see Umberto look at her, mamas? He like to eat her. At first he is skeered. Den he see how beautiful she is. He thinks she is bees. Umberto—I will kill Umberto. He's good now, but when Divitt turn hees back—"

"Divitt do not turn hees back. I see Umberto look," cooed Conchita. "I see her look too—at my Gabreau."

Gabreau sat upright. "You see dat? Black eyes—do grow soft like rain. Do small chest full of black opals too. I look an' see. Oh mamas, I hope she cannot run away."

"She stay," said Conchita, patting his shoulder. "I hear Divitt tell Umberto he have work for her. Molly is sick. She work in Molly's place. He say it one piece of tuck. He will not let her go if he need her."

For the third time Molly Divitt knocked on the door of the room above the fountain. Molly in green lounging pajamas had a hard prettiness softened by a ready smile and hair blonde and ringleted.

Molly knocked more loudly. It was after 12 o'clock. There was a stirring inside, and then a voice. "Who is there?"

"Mrs. Divitt. Don't you want breakfast? You can have it in bed."

"Thank you." The voice was close to the door now.

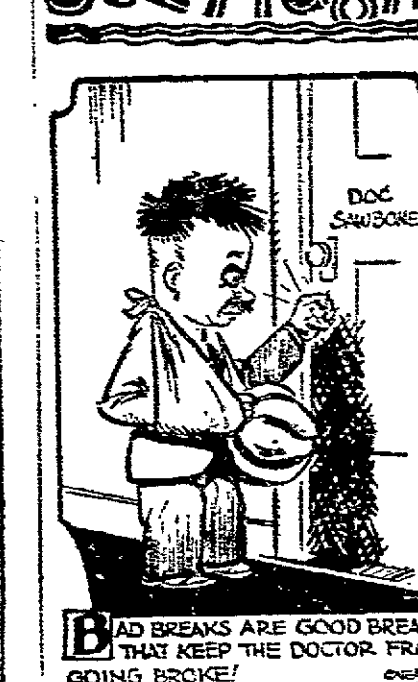

Molly went to Conchita's room and bade her go down to the kitchen and prepare a tray. Then she went back to the room above the fountain. The barred door opened at her knock, and the girl, wrapped in her cloak, went back to the bed and sat upon it.

"I told him all about it. 'It's true,' I said, 'but I wouldn't forge a check again if my life depended on it. But I'm a good stenographer—though I'm not from Montana.' 'I'm not either,' Divitt said. 'And maybe I've done things just as unconventional.' He said he guessed I didn't want to go back to the Tjion anyhow, and he needed a cashier if I'd work in the evenings. Can you beat it? And pretty soon we were married."

"You love him?" Juanita asked. "How can you help loving a man who makes you cashier after you've forged a check?" "That is not love." "Well, I'd do anything for him. The place was a sight when I came—sawdust floors and a regular gang playin'." Divitt let me fix it up. "Then I invented the rule of cigarette girl. But I've been sick lately and I've got to give it up. The nation don't look the same with no girl goin' about."

"Now, honey," laying her hand on the girl's. "You know about me. I want you to know you can say to me anything you want to." Juanita looked at her. "He's me to get away," she said. (Copyright, Dodd, Mead & Co.)

NEED TWO THIRDS MAJORITY TO ALTER STATE BANKING LAW

New Civil Service Provision Held Unconstitutional by Attorney

Madison — (P) — Because a bill was not passed by a two-thirds vote in the assembly and senate, the 1931 legislature failed to place the state banking department under the civil service law, Samuel Bryan, assistant attorney general, ruled in an opinion to Calvin F. Schwenker, commissioner of banking.

A provision in a bill introduced by Assemblyman Charles E. Rice, provided that the banking department be made subject to the civil service laws, but Mr. Bryan ruled that the measure did not pass by a two-thirds vote.

All banking bills must garner a two-thirds vote of all legislators in order to pass. The state banking department was created by a two-third vote and Mr. Bryan ruled that any legislative change in the department must be made by a two-thirds vote.

Mr. Bryan's ruling in part follows:

"The conclusion seems unavoidable that where the constitution forbids the enactment of a general banking law for the creation of banks and for the supervision and regulation of the banking business, except by a vote of two-thirds of all members elected to each house, that the legislature having pursuant thereto created a state banking department and specifically conferring upon the commission the power to appoint deputies, examiners and clerks, that arrangement can not be disturbed or altered by the legislature except by a vote similar to that required for the enactment of the original legislation. If the legislature could enact a banking law, and then by a mere majority amend the same, the obvious purpose of the constitutional provision would be frustrated."

J. E. Messerschmidt, an assistant attorney general, has informed G. Arthur Johnson that an Indian who has a legal settlement in a town and although he is still a member of a tribe, if he is indigent he is entitled to relief from the town.

In another opinion Assistant Attorney General J. E. Messerschmidt informed Theodore A. Waller, district attorney for Pierce county, that a place where the national prohibition laws are violated may be prosecuted in the state courts under the federal statutes.

GLACIERS TO SERVE AS THERMOMETERS

Will Record Earth's Fever and Chills, Scientists Say

Washington — (P) — America's glaciers are to be pressed into service as giant "thermometers" to tell scientists whether the nation's climate is growing warmer or cooler.

Glaciers, giant rivers of ice that move down mountain valleys at high altitudes, are extremely sensitive to shifts in climate, says Dr. F. E. Matthes of the United States Geological Survey.

They record the changes by growing longer or shorter in their mountain channels, somewhat as a thermometer's mercury moves up and down in response to temperature variations.

Regular yearly measurements of the movements of important glaciers in the United States and Alaska are to be arranged for by a newly-appointed committee of the American Geographical Union. Dr. Matthes is chairman of the committee.

Because North America has more glaciers than any other continent, this country is an especially good "laboratory" for studying climate variations, Dr. Matthes points out.

Glaciers all over the world are being measured with the same object under supervision of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics.

Measurements over long periods are expected to show whether or the world is entering another "warm age" after emerging from the last ice age, remains of which still can be seen in the ice sheets that cover Greenland, Iceland and the Antarctic continent.

Weather experts are accumulating evidence that seems to indicate there are regular cycles of warm and cold, wet and dry years, of varying lengths. Study of glacier variations will help check these theories.

If the climate continues to grow warmer, some glaciers may diminish greatly or even disappear altogether, Dr. Matthes says. This would affect towns and cities that derive drinking water and water power from streams that originate from the melting of glaciers.

Measuring the advance or recession of a glacier is comparatively simple.

A base line is established across the glacier between two fixed points on the sides of the valley above the moving ice. The distance from the base line to the tip of the glacier, compared with the distance noted the previous year, shows how far the glacier has advanced or receded.

It is important that the measurements be made yearly, preferably at the end of the summer melting period, Dr. Matthes says.

As yet there is no evidence that glaciers the world over are advancing or retreating consistently, he explains. Some are retreating, others remain practically stationary, while others both advance and retreat over varying periods.

A GOOD SUPPORT

"Yes," said the lazy young man, "my father has two wives to support."

"Good gracious! Your father isn't a bigamist, I hope."

"Oh, no, nothing like that. You see, I'm married now." — Answers.

IT'S ALL THE SAME

"They say you married her because her aunt left her a fortune."

"That's a lie! I'd have married her just the same whoever had left it to her." — Tit-Bits.

Husbands and Wives Exchange

Trading wives and children as casually as an ordinary business transaction, F. L. Stevens and George E. Spotswood, friends of Pomona, Calif., exchanged their families to the satisfaction of all concerned. Each couple has two children, a boy and girl, the eldest being 19 years of age. While Mr. Spotswood and the new Mrs. Stevens were in Nevada fixing things up, Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Spotswood took care of the four children. The two couples, as things stand now, are shown here. Mr. Stevens and the new Mrs. Stevens, formerly Mrs. Spotswood, are shown above, and Mr. Spotswood and the new Mrs. Spotswood, formerly Mrs. Stevens, are below.

CURTIS PRAISES EFFORTS OF U. S. AT LONDON CONFERENCE

Says America Taking Part in Growing Solidarity in Europe

London — (P) — Dr. J. Curtius, Germany's foreign minister, expressed deep appreciation today for the part which the United States played in the seven power conference just ended.

"It seems to me," he said, "that I ought to confine my comment to the political views of the German delegation. From that standpoint the conference demonstrated international solidarity in a manner which was truly moving and most promising for the future."

"Into this solidarity America is growing ever more intimately, not only through her objective cooperation now but also through her readiness to cooperate in the future. This attitude brought warm words of thanks from the French premier at the end of the conference."

"So far as German-American relations in this conference are concerned, even in Paris our delegation took every opportunity to make contacts with your excellent American statesmen. During the conference I called on Mr. Simson several times and all of us could chat in a friendly personal way with your representatives. Tonight we shall have the pleasure of entertaining them at dinner."

"Above all we are grateful that Mr. Simson, whose personal plans already have been heavily upset, nevertheless is willing to come to Berlin."

"We highly appreciate this decision to visit us and we are grateful for the promised visit of the British statesmen. We regard it as a public gesture of America's readiness to stand by us in a helpful manner."

Dr. Curtius emphasized his belief that the first paragraph of the official communiqué issued at the close of the conference is the most important from the German viewpoint in that it testifies to the basic soundness of Germany's economic and budgetary situation.

This paragraph asserts that withdrawals of capital from Germany are not justified by the German economic and budgetary situation.

DEPRESSION BLAMED FOR FALLING OFF IN MARRIAGE, DIVORCE

Washington — (P) — Depressing business conditions were reflected today in census bureau data showing sharp decrease in marriages and divorces during 1930.

The matrimonial market, riding the crest of a bullish movement from 1929 to 1930, in which marriages increased 4.2 per cent, fell off 8.5 per cent in 1930.

Divorces decreased 4.3 per cent last year, falling from 201,468 in 1929 to 191,630, as compared to the 1929 marriage total of 1,232,559 and 1930's 1,132,150 wedding couples.

Nevada has the highest divorce rating, 38.67 per 1,000 population, but she also led the country with 57 marriage per 1,000 while the national marriage average was only 9.2 per 1,000.

There were 5.9 marriages in the United States for each divorce.

WHEAT GERM AIDS AS PELLAGRA PREVENTIVE

Washington — (P) — Wheat germ, the most nutritious part of the wheat kernel, is valuable in preventing pellagra.

Dr. Hazel E. Munsell, of the Department of Agriculture has found wheat germ is a rich source of Vitamin G, lack of which causes pellagra. It also contains Vitamins A, B, and E, and is rich in fat.

Wheat germ is seldom used as human food because it does not keep well and consequently is difficult to handle commercially.

As yet there is no evidence that glaciers the world over are advancing or retreating consistently, he explains. Some are retreating, others remain practically stationary, while others both advance and retreat over varying periods.

House Moving Bug Has Bitten City, It Seems

Houses in Appleton seem to have been bitten by a gypsy bug. It would be gross exaggeration to say that houses are roaming all over town, but with this street blocked today and that one tomorrow for housemoving purposes it would almost seem that the entire town had turned nomadic.

Apparently more houses are being moved this summer than during any other year in the history of the city. Several weeks ago a large house moved from the corner of Superior and Washington-sts down Superior-st caused considerable fuming and fussing among residents on that street, because of damage to trees. Last week the Shapiro store building on N. Appleton-st was moved during the night down Appleton-st to College-ave, and out Badger-ave to the town of Grand Chute.

Last night the council was petitioned for permits to move the First English Lutheran church building on the corner of Drew and North-sts, and the McCormick home on Franklin-st, owned by the Mount Olive Lutheran church. The former building will be transferred to Erik park, where it will be used for a park pavilion. The McCormick home will be moved to a location on N. Appleton-st north of Wisconsin-ave. The mayor, city engineer and chairman of the street and bridge committee will determine the routes which will involve the least damage.

In the near future another house will be moved from the corner of Superior and Washington-sts to the corner of Summer and Clark-sts.

Banned Red Still Calls For Revolt

Trotsky Sends Out Flood of Communist Leaflets from Turkish Villa

BY RAYMOND CROWLEY

New York — (P) — In a down-at-heels villa in Turkey, Leon Trotsky is wielding a pen furiously in lieu of the red sword with which he once led the Communist vanguard in Russia.

Leaflet after leaflet, letter on letter flows out of little Moda, suburb of Istanbul, as the advocate of "world revolution" tries to prepare his "left opposition" for a fray he hopes is coming.

Just now he appears to be concentrating on the Spanish situation, judging from writings which have reached his followers here to be broadcast among the "leftists" and others who will listen.

"The monarchy has lost power, but it hopes to win it back," he cries in discussing the recent revolution which routed King Alfonso and set a republic in his stead.

"The possessing classes are still firm in the saddle," his pen shouts. "No faith in words. Give us deeds," he exhorts.

Appealing for a "united front" in Spain, he severely criticizes the Stalin regime in Russia which sent him into exile.

"One of the most malicious crimes of the Stalinist bureaucracy," he writes, "is the systematic splitting of the weak Communist ranks in Spain, a split which did not flow from the events of the Spanish revolution but was injected in advance in the form of directives, flowing from the struggle for existence of the Stalinist bureaucracy."

"Artificial groupings forced from the outside; the absence of a free and honest ideological struggle; the renaming of friends into enemies; the creation of legends serving to split the Communist ranks—this is what now paralyzes the Spanish Communist party. It must wrench itself out of the bureaucratic tongs

He declares the time is not yet ripe for the second revolution in which he "hopes the masses, arms in hand, will take power." The immediate task, he writes, is for the Communists "to win the majority of the workers, the majority of the soldiers, the majority of the peasants" to their support.

HOBSON JOINS FARM COLLEGE AT UNIVERSITY

Noted Agricultural Economist Begins Duties in September

Madison—(AP)—Asher Hobson, recognized as one of the leading agricultural economists in the nation, will join the faculty of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture in September to head work in farm marketing. It was announced by Dean Chris L. Christensen today.

Mr. Hobson, who has just resigned as director of the foreign agricultural crop and market information service in the United States department of agriculture, was appointed by the university board of regents at its June meeting, but announcement of the appointment was withheld until today.

Dean Christensen said Mr. Hobson accepted the position here following his recent return from Europe where he spent several weeks conferring with representatives of the U. S. department of agriculture stationed in European centers and interested in the expansion of foreign markets for American farm products.

While abroad, he attended the 18th international congress of agriculture at Prague, Czechoslovakia, in June as a representative of the United States.

Combining both teaching and practical experience, Mr. Hobson, a native of Kansas, was graduated from his state university, and received the master's degree from Wisconsin, and the doctorate at the University of Geneva, Switzerland.

After serving as research assistant in agricultural economics, at Wisconsin, Mr. Hobson became a member of the department of agricultural economics at the state college of Washington, and state director at the office of farm markets for the state of Washington.

Two years later he joined the U. S. department of agriculture, but later went to Columbia university, New York, as associate professor of farm economics.

For seven years was the American representative at the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome, Italy. On his return from Europe, he took the position he has just resigned to join the Wisconsin faculty.

Mr. Hobson will be associated with Prof. B. H. Hibbard here.

"We must appreciate that in the marketing of farm products we are in competition with the rest of the world," Dean Christensen said today. "Mr. Hobson should be of invaluable service in bringing to the attention of the farmers of the state an intimate knowledge of the world-wide situation in respect to the products which Wisconsin farmers have to sell."

HARD TIMES CAUSE SCHOOL PLAN CHANGE

Angora—(AP)—Hard times are forcing Turkey to take her first step backward in her educational program.

This year's budget calls for a cut of $1,000,000 in the department of public instruction. No new teachers can be engaged, and the existing corps of instructors must increase the number of teaching hours from 18 to 22 a week.

End Piles Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead tissue.

HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this City, that Schantz Bros. say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back. Adv.

Hunt For "Web-Footed Dog That Sings Like A Bird"

Washington—(AP)—Off to hunt "the web-footed dog that sings like a bird," and other beasts as strange as sideshow freaks, Dr. William Mann, director of the National Zoo, is on his way to South American jungles.

Armed with traps, nets, snares, and special cases, he will spend the next two months under a British Guiana tropical sun collecting little-known birds, beasts and reptiles for the national capital's menagerie.

The web-footed dog is a jungle animal with a queer sing-song whine. Its feet are a survival from some prehistoric ancestor that lived in the water.

The surinam toad, whose children hop out into the world from the skin of their mother's back, also will be sought by Dr. Mann. Eggs are laid by the mother toad in the usual way, but the male then presses them in cavities in the mother's leathery skin. There the eggs hatch, the young toads go through the tadpole stage still nestled in their mother's hide, and hop out as full-fledged young toads.

The surinam toads developed this way of hatching their young, says Dr. Mann, because water sometimes is too scarce in the jungle to bring young toads through the tadpole stage in quiet pools as young bullfrogs are brought up in America.

A giant anteater or "ant bear" that tucks itself carefully into bed each night under its own blanket is another specimen the expedition hopes to bring back. The "bunkie" is the long hairy fringe that is attached to the animal's tail.

$76,000 DECISION FOR ALUMINUM GOODS

Manitowoc Firm Won't Have to Pay This Amount Assessed in Taxes

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—The Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company of Manitowoc, headed by George Vitz, Republican national committeeman from Wisconsin, will not have to pay $76,199.52 previously assessed against it in income and profits taxes as the result of a decision just made public by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury department.

Of this amount credited to the concern, $55,525.68 is on assessments for the tax year 1918. Commissioner of Internal Revenue David Burnet explains that a field investigation of the taxpayer's books showed that the valuations filed in the company's report on opening and closing inventories was erroneous.

The rest, $20,673.84, was for the tax year 1920. The overassessment for that year is caused by additions to the reported invested capital representing amounts paid in during the taxable year on capital stock, subscriptions, excessive depreciation allowed in prior years, and the amount of the increase resulting from the correct adjustment of federal taxes.

Thorough field investigations of the company's books were made, Commissioner David Burnet says.

has the most powerful claws of any known bird, also will be sought. It stands only about three feet high, but is strong enough to carry away jungle animals as big as a large dog.

"No Substance" Found In Kress Dry Law Charges

Washington—(AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock said Wednesday investigators thus far had found "no substance" in charges made by Charles W. Kress, former senior investigator in northern New York who resigned after protesting against enforcement conditions there.

The bulk of Kress' charges, Woodcock said, were against Lowell D. Smith, deputy prohibition administrator for northern New York. Smith was charged by Kress with collusion with local dry law violators.

Asked whether the charges involved persons politically prominent in New York, the federal dry chief said some of Kress' statements apparently "harked back to old stuff concerning incidents before the justice department took over prohibition enforcement."

"I do not intend to give currency to charges," Woodcock said, "unless I believe they are true. Don't think we are satisfied with the enforcement of the law in New York state, but at the same time I have found nothing to show there was collusion between officials and violators there."

Woodcock praised Kress as "a good man and smart investigator." He added, however, that the former senior investigator apparently had "a disinclination to work under certain people."

Kress was suspended by the prohibition bureau last October for his refusal to work under Smith. He resigned from the service recently rather than accept transfer to New York city under Andrew McCambell. Woodcock said Kress also had made charges against McCambell, but that they centered principally upon his refusal to remove Smith.

ARTICLES FILED FOR DEFOREST DRILLING CO.

Madison—(AP)—Articles of incorporation for the DeForest Drilling company, organized to finance drilling operations for oil near DeForest, were on file with the secretary of state today.

The incorporators are Benjamin Farness and O. J. Boehm of DeForest and Hans Hanson, town of Windsor. They contend that oil and natural gas exists on the Hanson farm near DeForest.

Oil prospectors have worked in various parts of the state in the past but E. F. Bean, state geologist, has voiced the belief that Wisconsin contains no oil or natural gas in quantities sufficient for commercial operations.
